Bigtime Operation

Probers To Bare
Gaming Trickery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate rackets probers try to show today how the underworld blends trickery with modern electronics to beat the law in promoting big-time gambling.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee already has heard testimony that corruption of some law enforcement officials is another tried and true method. No one at the hearing has yet put the finger on any official as taking graft.

Among witnesses called by the subcommittee was Elum (Bill) Caudell, a former Florida policeman with a record of 14 arrests and one conviction—later reversed on appeal—on charges of illegally transmitting racing information.

Richard E. Gerstein, Dade County (Miami) state attorney, Thursday called Caudell an artist at pilfering forbidden information from race tracks and feeding it into clandestine telephone wire networks that serve U.S. and Canadian handbook betting establishments.

The subcommittee is trying to decide if new federal laws are needed to curb race wire services. They are legal under federal law and prohibited only in Florida, Gerstein said. He called race wires the life blood of bookmaking.

Under Florida law it is illegal to transmit any race information from a track for an hour before the races start and for a half hour after each race has ended.

Gerstein told how bookies' agents use tiny radio transmitters hidden in a girdle worn inside their shirts, wig-wag with their hands to confederates outside the track, and use relays of messengers and other devices.

3,500 Attend Thursday

Rodeo Performances Set
For Last 2 Nights Of Fair

LISBON — The King Brothers Rodeo will be the main attraction tonight and Saturday to wind up the 116th annual Columbiana County Fair.

This show played to standing-room only last year and Fair Board members hope the grandstand again will be filled.

Grandstand attendance showed approximately 500 for the races and variety show Thursday. There was a total of 3,500 paid admission yesterday, Clarence Crosser, secretary, said.

Saturday, the last day of the Fair, will see pony pulling contests at 9:30 a.m., final horse racing card including 2-year-old trot and 3-year-old colt stakes, livestock and machinery parade at 7 p.m. and final performance of the rodeo.

In yesterday's racing, Fred Bach, took two first, a second and a tie for third in four races. Winners of the racing program were:

2:20 Trot — Purse $400 — Live-ly Time, Bach, driver, 1st; Little Demon, L. Lynn, driver, 2nd; Duchess Mite, J. Perkins, driver, 3rd; Lucky Gold, G. Brown, driver, 4th; Clever Colby, W. Gummerson, driver, 5th; Maybelle Red, M. Woolman, driver, 6th, and My Easter Lily, Evan Evans Jr., driver, 7th.

2:20 Trot — Purse $400 — Maple Leaf, Bach, 1st; Kimberlite, Gene Brown, driver, 2nd; Wee Willy Wynwood, Gummerson, 3rd; Chesterstone, J. Long, driver, 4th, and Dudley Truax, C. Buel, driver, 5th.

Free-for-all Trot — Purse $500

—Perk Wynwood, Gummerson, 1st; Lady Burton, Bach, 2nd; Moth Proof, Woolman, 3rd; Jason, C. Isaerl, driver, 4th, and Favoniall Tass, A. Meredith, driver, 5th.

2-year-old Pace — Purse $1,460 — Knight Scene, George Schill, driver, 1st; Adah's Broom, Fred McKenzie, driver, 2nd; Success Adam, Bach, and Nattie, Toney Raber, driver, tied for 3rd, and Terri Pac, Jerry Ross, driver, 4th.

A trophy was presented by the Lisbon Pace and Trot Club to the winner in honor of Harry Caton

Living Costs
Hit New High
During July

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs rose to a new high in July. The increase as compared with June was nearly one-half of one per cent, the biggest advance in nine months.

The Labor Department reported today that its index of consumer prices rose from 127.6 to 128.1. In the index, 100 represents average prices in 1947-49. Prices in July thus were 28.1 per cent higher than during the base years.

The exact amount of the increase from June to July was 0.4 per cent.

Higher food prices were the biggest single factor in the increase. There also were important advances in prices of gasoline, sporting goods, used cars and women's clothing.

Airliners To Keep On Flying Despite
Red 'Veiled Threat'

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. authorities said today civilian airliners will keep flying into West Berlin despite a "scarcely veiled threat" by the Soviet Union to clamp down on flights.

Britain Warns Soviet On West Flying Rights

LONDON (AP)—Britain warned the Soviet Union anew today that any bid to interfere with Western flying rights into West Berlin would create a dangerous situation and that Moscow would be to blame.

The Foreign Office disclosed it has advised British nationals contemplating visits to East Germany that they would travel at their own risk.

The authorities cited both precedent and past agreements signed by the Soviets as allowing commercial flights to Berlin without interference.

In a tough-worded statement approved by President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk, the U.S. government Thursday rejected as false Soviet charges that the Western powers are airlifting West German spies and saboteurs to West Berlin.

The new Kremlin note said that in transportation of Germans to West Berlin the Western powers are abusing the air corridors to

26 Gambling
Stamps Held
At Weirton

Seventy individuals in a four-county area in the Northern Panhandle of West Virginia have purchased federal wagering stamps for the fiscal year — only four less than the number issued in Las Vegas!

The U. S. Internal Revenue Service's regional office in Parkersburg said 30 of the $50 stamps were issued in Wheeling, 26 in Weirton, five in Wellsburg, three in Moundsville, two in Follansbee, and one each in McMechen, Benwood and Glen Dale.

The wagering stamps are for bookie operations, tipboards, football spot sheets, and punchboards, but do not include coin-operated gambling devices which require a $250 gambling stamp.

Wheeling is said to have as many wagering stamps as the entire state of New York, and more than Los Angeles, Philadelphia and Milwaukee.

The 1951 gambling law tax passed by Congress required stampholders to pay a 10 per cent tax on gross revenues.

Holders of stamps in Weirton (Hancock County) are Henry J. Barber, James Bournias, People's Restaurant; Paul C. Cooper, State Cigar Store; Anne Dadasovich, D. & M. Bar; Dusham G. and Mary A. Davis; Kasper Dejarro, State Cigar Store; James Ferrilli, Ethel & Jack's; Louis Grisko, State Cigar Store; Meade McLister, Mac's Cigars.

Alfred W. Magrine, Joseph Mozzone, Ledo Cafe; Ali M. Musmarakis, State Cigar Store; Mike Musulin, Corner Cigar; Henry Muzzi, Columbia Bar; Charles L. Nagy Sr., Chuck's Grill; Theodore Papas, Lincoln Restaurant; Frank Pinion, Pinion's Terminal; Lester Rokesky, State Cigar Store; John Sobo; Wilbur H. Sparr; Ed J. Stuart, Main St. Bar; Pauline Tarowsky, Pauline's Place; Frank Tasse, Tasse's Tavern; Nick Vagonis, 201 Club; Nick Vukovich, State Cigar Store, and Nick Vukovich and Daniel Lalich.

Driver Given
10 Days For Permit Lack

2nd East End Man
Handed Suspension
Of Driving Rights

An East End man, making his second appearance in Municipal Court for driving without an operator's permit, was sentenced to 10 days in the County Jail today by Judge Samuel M. Chertoff while another East End driver lost his license for 90 days after a reckless driving charge was substituted for the original charge of driving while intoxicated.

Everett W. Jackson, 556 Railroad St., drew the jail term from Judge Chertoff after pleading guilty to driving without a permit. He was arrested at 3 a. m. today on the River Rd.

Questioned at length by Judge Chertoff, Jackson admitted he has been driving 10 years but hasn't had a license since his original West Virginia permit expired.

Court records show Jackson was fined $10 and costs on Dec. 8, 1956, on a similar charge. Judge Chertoff termed the fine "a pat on the wrist."

The father of three children, he told the judge he hasn't had a steady job in six years and was on relief at one time.

The drunk driving charge against Frank E. McDaniel, 53, of 808 St. George St. was dismissed by Judge Chertoff at the request of Patrolman Jack Stroble, the arresting officer, and Asst. Solicitor Richard J. Clark and a charge of reckless driving was substituted.

McDaniel was arrested on Aug. 14 after his car hit a utility pole at E. 5th and Walnut St. but he failed to stop and was taken into custody on St. George St.

Thieves Take Change
From Route 30 Store

The theft of between $15 and $20 in change from a coin-operated beverage machine at the Smith Feed Co. store along Route 30 north of Cannons Mills some time overnight was being investigated today by sheriff's deputies.

Deputies are also investigating the theft of 162 packs of cigarettes from a vending machine at the Park Auto Theater on Route 62 east of Alliance early Thursday. The loss was estimated at $48, Deputy James Gause said.

County's 1961 Traffic Toll

This date in 1960—19 Killed!
DON'T BE 'I' IN '61

An East Liverpool woman died in City Hospital Thursday night of injuries received a short time earlier in a freak accident while crossing a street in Wells-ville.

Mrs. Bessie A. Weekley, 53, of 1099 Monaca St., expired at 6:05 of multiple fractures and internal injuries sustained in the mishap at 4:40 at 9th and Main Sts.

Dr. R. C. Costello, deputy Columbiana County coroner, ruled accidental death after an investigation. She was the county's 10th traffic victim of the year, compared to 19 for the same date in 1960.

Wellsville Police said the woman had left the home of Howard Leith, 924 Main St., where she worked as a housekeeper.

She started to cross the street behind a Mat-Lack tanker-truck

Doesn't Seem To Be Fazed

West Berlin Lives It Up
Despite The New Crisis

BERLIN (AP) — West Berlin, faced with a new crisis, is living it up.

The East German moves to gobble them up don't seem to faze the West Berliners for a moment. They are interested, somewhat concerned, perhaps even disturbed but—

The man on the street is definitely more wrapped up in his hour-to-hour and day-to-day pursuits. It is as though he has decided this is a problem for somebody else, namely the Western Allies and the Soviets, and until they sort themselves out he is going ahead with normal living.

What such normal living means is the theater, the movies, sports, the beer halls, the night clubs. People are putting new coats of paint on their houses. They are pruning and preening their gardens. They are buying on credit and looking for mortgages where necessary.

Except for the spots right on the barricaded border with East Berlin, the night clubs are blazing away. A barman at one of them, asked how business was, commented nonchalantly:

"Normal."

Normal kept that particular barman hopping.

A new night club opened just as the East German Reds put their clamp on the town and spread worry around the globe. Called the Smoky, it specializes in a quick drink, a quick bar girl, a sort of strip-tease and a wall-opping check. Well decorated and well staffed, the spot had to do business quickly to avoid going to the wall, and it's doing the business.

Midland Eyes

Air Pollution

Council To Request
Crucible Aide At Future Discussions

Midland Council Thursday night held a lengthy discussion of air pollution and approved Burgess Eli Corak's suggestion that Joel Hunter, president of the Crucible Steel Co., be contacted to attend or send a representative to a future meeting on the problem.

Crucible's Midland Works apparently is the principal cause.

Council recently wrote the Pennsylvania Air Pollution Control board to inform councilmen of laws on air pollution by industries. The borough has not yet received word from the state as to when a representative will arrive.

Councilman Joseph D'Alesio, also president of Steelworkers Local 1212 at the Midland Works, said the company plans to change several furnaces to oxygen which will increase the possibility of pollution.

Councilman Harvey Sponcer commented that the use of oxygen will shorten the time of heats.

Councilmen said Crucible should be contacted now and perhaps measures to prevent pollution might be included in the company's budget for next year.

A letter was received from the Chamber of Commerce, congratulating Council on its stand against air pollution and offering help.

R. E. Steebner, borough engineer, reported the new sewage treatment plant has been in operation a week but still has not passed final inspections. He indicated it may be approved in one or two months.

City Hall Will Close
For Funeral Saturday

City Hall will be closed Saturday to permit employees to attend the funeral of Lee Copenhaver, safety-service director, which will be held at 10:30 a. m. at the Martin Funeral Home, Mayor Bert H. Goodballet said today.

Normally closed at noon, the offices will be closed all morning, the mayor said.

Patrolmen Charles Winters and C. E. Tice and Capt. R. B. Pyle were named as police pallbearers. Representing the fire department will be Asst. Chief David Anderson and Firemen Gerald Goodballet and Merle McShane.

Orders Are To Be Set To Shoot, Move
And Communicate

BERLIN (AP) — Communist guards fired warning shots today to scare away about 30 West Berliners who had crowded to the barbed wire barrier in the French sector to watch Red activity on the other side.

West Berlin police said of the incident at Frohnau that a Communist suddenly ordered: "Go back 100 meters (110 yards) or we will shoot."

The crowd did not move.

Then came a rattle of gun fire.

Western police persuaded the people then to pull back for their own safety.

The incident was another in outbursts of violence on both sides of the border that kept tension and tempers high in this 13th day of the border war of nerves.

For the first time since 1946 the U.S. Army garrison in Berlin has artillery support—six 105mm howitzers. The howitzers, however, are parked at McNair Barracks, miles from the city border.

The howitzers have a range of about 12,000 yards. An Army spokesman said they are fitted to use only standard shells and not atomic warheads. Tank guns have been the biggest armament of the garrison, swelled by reinforcements last Sunday to 6,500 men.

"Our orders are to be able to shoot, move and communicate," said Sgt. John L. Sanders of Amarillo, Tex.

There has been no shooting from the West Berlin side of the border. From the East Berlin, all the serious shooting has been at refugees.

The howitzers are designed to

Pravda Says
Allied Troops
In Mousetrap

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda, the Communist party paper, asserted today that Allied soldiers in West Berlin are caught in a "mouse-trap."

"The strengthening of the American garrison in West Berlin is of course of no military significance," the paper said. "The size of the forces in the West Berlin mousetrap is a political and not a military question."

Pravda said, however, the fact that the United States chose to increase the garrison rather than seek a peaceful settlement is significant.

"In this sense," Pravda said, "the measure is a provocation which cannot be left without attention."

"The aggressive circles in the Federal Republic of Germany and the West in general, should have long ago realized that the language of threats is of no use against the Soviet Union and other Socialist countries," the party organ declared.

Pravda also claimed that the "speed and resolution" with which the East German regime sealed the border between East and West Berlin was indicative of the support that the East German government "enjoys among the vast majority of the population."

In line with the current Soviet tactic of blaming the new German crisis on Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's West German government, the article attacked Adenauer as a crisis-maker who "is ready to fight for West Berlin to the last American soldier."

Deaths and Funerals

Retired Ware Worker Dies

Mrs. Stella Collins Smith, 214 Jefferson St., Newell, a retired potter, died Thursday at 8:15 p. m. at her home after an illness of about six months. She was 74.

Mrs. Smith was born Oct. 3, 1886, in Tyler County, W. Va., daughter of Martin Collins and Jenny Stoneking Collins. She resided here for about 46 years. She retired in 1951 after working at Plant 6 of the Homer Laughlin China Co. She was a member of the Newell Church of the Nazarene and the IBOP. Her husband, James Smith, died in 1951.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Ivie Johnson of Newell and Mrs. Opal Smith of East Liverpool; five sons, Walter Pasco and Martin Smith, both of Newell, Rosmond Smith of Martinsburg, W. Va., Erval J. Smith of Norristown, Pa., and James Smith Jr. of Chester; two brothers, Gilbert G. Collins of Chester and Clarence Collins of East Liverpool; a sister, Mrs. Ada Maiden of Wick, W. Va., and nine grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

Services will be held Monday at 2 p. m. at the Chester Arner Chapel by the Rev. Lewis Legg of Charleston, former pastor of the Newell church. Burial will be in Locust Hill Cemetery.

Friends may call at the chapel Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Joella Roller

Mrs. Joella Fife Roller, 93, a former resident of Aten Ave., Wellsville, died Thursday at 2:45 a. m. at the home of her stepdaughter, Mrs. Minnie Roller Hales, of Gary, Ind., with whom she resided for 18 years.

She was a member of the Covenant Presbyterian Church of Wellsville. Her husband, Homer H. Roller, died Nov. 1, 1953.

In addition to her stepdaughter, she leaves five grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

Services will be held Saturday at 1 p. m. at the MacLean Funeral Home in Wellsville by the Rev. Bruce R. Davis. Burial will be in Grove Hill Cemetery in Hanover.

Friends may call at the funeral home tonight.

Theodore Hoover

Theodore (Ted) Hoover, 56, of Phoenix, Ariz., a former resident of East Liverpool died of a heart attack Wednesday while in Georgia. He was a truck driver.

While in East Liverpool, he drove a bakery truck.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lavenia Mahon Hoover, at home; a daughter, a step-son and a step-daughter.

Services will be held Monday afternoon at the Moore Funeral Home in Phoenix with burial there.

McDaniel received a continuance to obtain counsel and then appeared in court a few days later with Atty. George Aronson and the hearing was set for today.

When arraigned on the reckless driving count, McDaniel entered a guilty plea and Atty. Aronson asked mitigation because of illness.

Judge Chertoff suspended McDaniel's license for 90 days and fined him $50 and costs.

A routine traffic check a month ago has turned into a nightmare for a 21-year-old East End man employed at an auto sales firm.

Ravenna Bell, 1232 Chaffin St., granted a continuance until today to secure a license, told the judge this morning he flunked his test. "The examiner said I was pressing too much," Bell told the judge.

Judge Chertoff then granted another continuance until Sept. 18, warning Bell he must secure a license by then. "If you don't — well, I just want to warn you. And you better not get behind the wheel of a car until Sept. 18 or you'll go to jail."

Meanwhile, Jeremiah Vuletic of Smiths Ferry was ordered to pay the costs of $7.50 on a charge of operating his car on an expired 10-day tag after showing Judge Chertoff a statement that he had sold his auto.

Vuletic was cited Monday morning on Broadway but sentencing was delayed until today to allow Vuletic time to sell the car.

Col. Banks Acquitted In Radar Tower Case

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP)—Air Force Col. William M. Banks has been acquitted by a court-martial on a charge of negligence in the collapse of a Texas radar tower that took 28 lives.

Banks, 46, said at the end of his trial Thursday: "With a fair and just court my innocence was established." He was stationed at Stewart Air Force Base here and had over-all charge of the radar tower that collapsed in an Atlantic storm 80 miles off the New Jersey coast Jan. 15.

After the trial, Banks returned to his present post as assistant to the director of materiel management of the San Antonio air materiel staff.

Beaver ASC Lists Slate

The Beaver County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee at Beaver said ballots were to be mailed today for the voting for community committees.

Ballots must be returned to the county office by Sept. 5.

Mark Hilliker, chairman of the Beaver County ASC committee, announced the following slate of nominees for the community committees.

Community 1 — Hanover, Green and Frankfort Townships, Robert Boyd, Thomas Glenn, Lawrence Searight, Charles Shane and Raymond Tate of Hookstown R.D.; D. Marnhout and William McKenzie of Clinton R.D.; John McCoy and Glenn McDowell of Aliquippa R.D. and Richard Nicol of Georgetown R.D.

Community 2 — Center, Hope, well, Raccoon, Potter and Independence Townships, Raymond Hall, John Heinlein, Frank Malone and Clyde McElhane of Aliquippa R.D.; Mark Hilliker, Norman Jodkins and Duane Miller of Clinton R.D., and Guy Moore, John A. Stewart and J. Robert Wilson of Hookstown R.D.

Community 3 — Brighton, Industry, and Ohio Townships, Wilbur Allison, Charles Engelman, Paul Householder, Raymond Morgan and John Novakovic of Beaver R.D. Richard Gailey, Frank Justice, F. L. Davis and Mitchell Zlatovich of Smiths Ferry R.D., and Lloyd McGaffick of Industry R.D.

Community 4 — Big Beaver, South Beaver, Chippewa, Darling, and White Townships, Charles Blum, George Klein, Donald Graham and Mervyn Trautvetter of Darlington R.D., and Frank Buchholz, Blair Ferguson, Clyde Morgan, Vern D. Sherman, E. M. Shaw and W. F. Spann of Beaver Falls, R.D.

Community 5 — Economy, New Sewickley and Rochester Townships, Lloyd D. Brenner, Howard Teets, Elder A. Vogel and Floyd Young of Rochester R.D.; William Brown and Russell Zahn of New Brighton R.D., and Robert Musgrave, Warren Robinson, Frederick Ruckert and Robert Yeck of Freedom R.D.

Community 6 — Daugherty, Franklin, Marion and North Sewickley Townships, Charles Baird, Duane Douglas, Harold Foster and Roy Herrmann of Beaver Falls R.D.; Ralph Boots, Earl Fogel, Ray Perkins, Lee Steffler and Laurence Ziegler of Fombell R.D., and Bill Wright of Ellwood City, R.D.

To be elected are three regular committee members and two alternates. The chairman and vice chairman of the elected Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation community committee will also serve as delegate and alternate delegate, respectively, to the county convention where the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee will be chosen. The county convention will be held at 10 a. m. Sept. 12 at the ASCS County office.

Questions on eligibility to vote and to hold office will be determined by the county committee, subject to appeal to the state committee. Generally, an eligible voter must be a bona fide farmer or farm owner who is taking part or eligible to take part in one or more of the programs administered by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committees.

British Leaders Set Berlin Crisis Talks

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Lord Home, the foreign secretary, will meet at the Scottish golfing resort of Gleneagles Sunday to discuss the Berlin situation.

The prime minister has been on a shooting holiday in Yorkshire. Lord Home is vacationing in Lanarkshire.

Midland

He said representatives of Chester Engineers of Pittsburgh were at the plant two days last week and yesterday to assist in the operation.

Steebner said only the heating system so far has been approved by the state. Electrical and plumbing work remain to pass final inspection. Steve Germusa, president, said Council cannot turn the plant over to the Municipal Authority or charge rates until it passes inspection.

The delay in getting the plant ready for use does not seem to be unusual, according to Steebner, who said the Bethel plant, in operation several months, still is having trouble. He said the Midland plant now needs a check valve, since there is so much pressure it could wreck a meter and boiler.

Council approved the payment of $4,410 to the Rochester Coal Trucking & Contracting Co. for blacktopping of Hillcrest St., Virginia Ave. from 4th to 6th Sts. and east Virginia Ave. and patching.

Steebner reported that work began yesterday morning on a new blacktop sidewalk along the athletic field on 13th St. It should be completed today.

Mrs. C. K. O'Hara, secretary, said a Beaver County field registration for voters will be held Thursday from 1 to 9 p. m. at the Borough Building.

Council turned over to D'Alesio, service chairman, and Spencer, fire chairman, recommendations of the Municipal Authority concerning fire hydrants as recommended by Acting Fire Chief Vincent D'Itri, following his annual inspection recently. The committees were given the power to act after their study.

The recommendations include a new hydrant at 7th St. and Ohio Ave., another at 6th St. and Virginia Ave., and relocating one at 628 Ohio Ave. to 6th St. and Ohio Ave.

During a discussion of Civil Defense, it was brought out that a demonstration trailer at Beaver will come to Midland next with information and literature concerning shelters and other matters.

Burgess Corak, also a Beaver County commissioner, said the commissioners will go to Washington Monday to meet with several groups, including one on urban affairs. He said the commissioners expect to learn what grants and loans are available for projects in the county, including off-street parking facilities which Council plans for Midland.

Councilman William Vinovich, swimming pool chairman, said classes at the Veterans Memorial Pool will end Sept. 1 and the pool will close Labor Day, Sept. 4.

Councilman Raymond Presutti asked Steebner to obtain prices soon for planting trees in the Spring Ln. area in West End. Presutti said he would like to have the bids in for opening at the next Council meeting. The planting will be done in the fall.

Council authorized John Verzel to cut four feet of curbing for a sidewalk repair at the entrance of the Verzelli Brothers garage on the 6th St. side.

George Vuyanch, 330 Beaver Ave., appeared again before Council to complain of fumes entering his home from nearby.

Mrs. O'Hara was asked to contact John McGovern of Beaver, the state's district health inspector, to visit Vuyanch Monday or Tuesday to inform him of his rights under state law.

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—Cheddi Jagan, leftist prime minister-designate of this British South American colony says he will visit Washington this fall. He wants more aid to develop his country, now approaching internal self-rule.

2nd Delegate Bill Planned

Miss Callie Tsapis of Weirton will re-introduce in January to the West Virginia State Legislature a bill that would provide Hancock County with a second member of the House of Delegates.

She told the Grant District Democrat Club at a meeting Thursday night in the Lawrenceville fire hall that the county deserves a second delegate because of an increase in population shown by the 1960 census.

Atty. Tsapis is presently serving her second term in the house as the member from Hancock County.

Her proposal for a second delegate introduced at the last term of the legislature, under which Hancock and Wood Counties would qualify for one extra delegate, and Kanawha County two, was voted down by a Southern bloc in objection.

Miss Tsapis told the club yesterday that Gov. W. W. Barron had denied her request to have the proposal included in his call when the Legislature meets in January in its budget session.

During business conducted by Julian C. Wilson, second vice president, plans were made for a family-style picnic Sept. 17 at 2 p. m. at Tomlinson Run State Park. The committee includes Annie Durham, president, Donald DeLong, Miss Alberta Stravinsky, secretary, and Wilson.

Lunch was served by DeLong, O. W. Leasure, Guy Michaels, Jack Stover and Jack Berry. Nearly 100 attended.

Due At Prison

NEW CUMBERLAND — Commitment papers are being prepared for Donald Eugene Saunders, 31, of Wellsburg, who was sentenced to a 2-10-year term in Moundsville State Prison Nov. 16 for malicious assault of Steve Yurka, 48, of New Cumberland at Waterford Park. Saunders is being held in County Jail here after Judge Ralph E. Pryor of Circuit Court denied his request for probation.

the city, "taking advantage of the absence of control over air communications."

The U.S. statement, issued at the White House, denounced the Moscow protest as cynical and irresponsible at a time when the Reds, in "direct violation" of the agreements to unify Germany, built a barricade sealing off East Berlin.

The Soviet complaint about relations between West Germany and West Berlin cannot be taken seriously at a time when Moscow is claiming East Berlin is part of East Germany, the U.S. statement said.

"What must be taken seriously by the whole world, however, is the scarcely veiled threat of aggression against the Allied air routes to and from West Berlin," it said.

"The United States must serve a solemn warning to the Soviet Union that any interference by the Soviet government or its East German regime with free access to West Berlin would be an aggressive act for the consequences of which the Soviet government would bear full responsibility."

Three commercial airlines, one for each of the Western occupying powers, now fly the three 100-mile air corridors that connect West Berlin with West Germany.

U.S. authorities made these points:

1. A 1945 agreement of the Allied Control Council, the postwar governing body for Germany that included the Soviet Union, provided for use of air corridors to Berlin by Allied planes. The Soviets subsequently tried to restrict this to military aircraft, but the control council did not agree.

2. Despite Soviet contentions that flights to Berlin are authorized only to supply Western garrisons there, none of the documents agreed on by the occupying powers specifies what the air corridors can be used for.

3. Although the Soviets sit on the Berlin air safety center, the Soviet representative has no power to veto plane flights. The air center's job was described as an automatic, mechanical one designed to keep air traffic untangled—not with power to stop the flights.

Gunman Grabs Gems

Quick Passage Seen On Peace Corps Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration leaders predicted quick passage today for President Kennedy's bill to put the Peace Corps on a permanent basis.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., floor manager for the measure, said the bill, carrying out one of Kennedy's campaign pledges, would be approved by an overwhelming majority.

He was strengthened in his confidence by the 59-32 roll call vote Thursday by which the Senate defeated a Republican-sponsored proposal to cut the money authorization for the first year from $40 million to $25 million.

It's Harder, But Stay With It

The new reference reading program at East Liverpool High School, along with stepped-up course work here and at other area schools, demonstrates anew the fact that education is becoming more demanding for our students — because life itself is more demanding.

Although this trend may bring dismay to some young people, they must realize that the extra work means better preparation for college or their future occupation and that the dividends will be many in the years to come.

School administrators are concerned about providing the best education possible in our increasingly complex existence. But they also are concerned about the drop-out rate for students past the compulsory attendance age of 16 — those who obtain work permits and cut short their education as freshmen or sophomores.

With the start of classes less than two weeks away, any young boy and girl who is considering quitting school still has the chance to change these plans and weigh the long-range consequences.

Finishing high school means not only more money in terms of a better job, but adds up to a fuller life and a better understanding of the world of the future.

Parents, teachers, friends and relatives of young people owe them the responsibility of urging them to remain in school, to take advantage of every opportunity education offers.

The public likewise owes its support to school leaders interested in improving the curriculum and in providing for constantly changing needs in the world of today.

The Reds Subverted Themselves

The Communists attempt to justify their closing of the East-West German border with the charge that West Berlin was being used as a base to subvert the European countries of the Soviet bloc.

That is typical of the way Red dialectic subverts the use of language to suit Moscow's purposes.

The charge is ridiculous within the traditional meaning of the word "subvert." If West Berlin has been used deliberately by the West as a point of entry for espionage agents and saboteurs, the new one-way blockade on travel from East to West will not stop it. And it is just as reasonable to assume that the Communists also could use West Berlin as a point of entry for espionage agents and saboteurs.

BUT IT IS CLEAR to everyone that that is not what the Communists really mean by their charge. What they mean is that the steady flow of millions of East Germans to new lives in the West sector was too heavy a burden on the already hated, near-collapse economy of the Red puppets of East Germany.

And it focused too much attention elsewhere in the world—especially among the European nations of the Soviet bloc—on the stark contrast between life in East Germany and life in West Germany.

In Communism terminology, that constitutes subversion. The Communist society, even at its best, cannot survive where there is an absolutely free flow of people, ideas, money and products. The East German regime certainly is not the best of any thing, even communism.

In anybody else's language, however, subversion implies subterfuge. And there was no subterfuge in the movement of Germans from East to West. It was public and legal. The West was guilty of complicity in the movement only insofar as it provided a place for the East Germans to come to, money to support them until they were relocated and new jobs and new homes for them as quickly as possible.

THE "SUBVERSION" was carried on by the people of East Germany themselves by simply walking out and crossing the border to what they knew had to be a better life.

Politics was only incidental to the decisions of most of them—what they wanted was some hope, a brighter future, more of the world's goods, a little easier life right now, a freer climate for the spirit to grow in. The vast majority of them were under 45 years old, and they sought something better than unending, unrewarded, grinding toil for themselves and their children.

That they had to move from East to West to satisfy those normal human longings was no fault of theirs and no fault of the West's.

If the word "subversion" is applied to East Germany in its traditional definition, the only conclusion possible is that the Communists were guilty of subverting themselves.

This is the irony that stands out as the Communists use verbal subterfuge to try to save face for their desperate situation in Germany.

World Crisis At The Met

Labor Secretary Goldberg's personal efforts to solve the Metropolitan Opera's union troubles must arouse considerable curiosity among the citizenry, excluding, of course, opera lovers, who can be forgiven their deep emotional involvement.

Why would a cabinet-rank officer so concern himself with one company's dispute with one union that he would fly three-quarters of the way across the country to hold daily conferences on the matter?

IT REALLY is not so mysterious, when you stop to think about it. The Kennedy administration has a reputation to uphold. The White House is leading a resurgence of official interest in the arts.

Mrs. Kennedy is the real leader of the movement, of course, since her husband finds himself preoccupied with other matters and the First Lady is really better qualified by talent and training for the task.

And she has worked indefatigably at it. There have been additions to the historical furnishings in the White House, changes in the display of paintings and sculptures in its rooms, arrangements for special youth concerts on the White House lawn and regular attendance at plays, musicals and other performances.

The effect of all this effort could be wiped out by the failure of the Met to go on with its first full season since the ascendancy of the Kennedys. Having attained a front-rank position among the world's opera companies and boasting the world's finest collecting of singers, the Met is the finest symbol of America's maturity in things cultural.

What a prestige - rocking tragedy it would be for that symbol to collapse in a heap of quarrels over whether musicians were going to be paid $173 or $248 a week.

IF PRESERVATION of the standard of living is important to the U.S. economic important to its military status and the safeguarding of democratic processes is vital to its ideological position, certainly the perpetuation of the Met is important to its cultural position.

We just cannot afford to let the Bolshoi dancers go unchallenged.

That is why Mr. Goldberg is holding those conferences in Denver.

The Once Over

British nudist club reported $11 stolen from clothes in undressing room. Police said they were helpless because they could not search anybody. Clearly a case for Sherlock Holmes:

Holmes: Watson, we must look for someone who wears a guilty look—and little else.

Watson: But skin coloration reflecting embarrassment or nervousness is not easily detectable in nudist colony. Have we no cases in our file which might point to thief?

Holmes: We have the celebrated Case of the Summer Colony Woman Shoplifter who easily operated in a supermarket because she looked no different than shoppers in current street attire. And there's the Case of the Man who Looted Nudist Lockerrooms Without Detection due to the fact he wore Bermuda shorts which had shrunk so much he seemed to be a club member rather than an intruder.

Watson: Wasn't there the Case of the Turkish Bath Pickpocket of Shrewsbury-Wickford?

Holmes: Yes, but they are both behind bars. The problem here, Watson, is that $11 has shrunk to such small proportions that it is hardly visible to the naked eye.

Watson: The only thing we have in common with nudists is the naked eye and it would be of no use to us, I fear. My dear Holmes, what could a nudist camp member want with $11?

Holmes: Just the BARE necessities, Watson.

Watson: Well, let us pursue every strip of evidence. In the meantime, I propose we review the famous Case of the Fan Dancer and the Strip-Tease Club Fan Hijacker.

Holmes: Marvelous idea, Watson, marvelous!

SHORT STORY of the Met Opera and the absent Rudolph Bing situation:

Bing

Go.

Sing?

No.

In view of Lyndon Johnson's success in the East Berlin crisis, you can imagine what would have happened if we sent over not only a Texan but sent him with cow pony and lariat.

Jimmy Piersall probably booted that diamond-involving baseball fan for "kicks."

Critics of Rudolf Bing say they should get "more bang out of Bing for a buck."

Tailgating, or following too close to car ahead, is a chief cause of auto accidents, statistics show. More and more drivers seem to think that on a crowded highway they can merely yell "Fore!" and go through.

U.S. goods licensed for shipping to Soviet world jumped 800 per cent in past few weeks. It's pretty cockeyed to hear a man threaten to bury us, and then send him the necessary appliances.

Do you remember these other old-time automobiles—the Scripps-Booth, Stanley Steamer, Hupmobile, Franklin, Lozier and Moon?

Yes, and also the Lozier, Dart, Franklin (wooden frame), Essex, White Steamer and Baker Electric.

President Quadros of Brazil pinned on chest of Cuban "Che" Guevara one of highest medals ever conferred by that country. But as far as we have read no American delegated at the same convention offering millions to country got a five-cent cigar.

Berlin Disgusted With Labor Chiefs

By Victor Riesel

Now I've traveled the whole barbed-wire route—from the Soviet outpost above Erzerum in Asia to Lubeck at the Baltic tip of East Germany and back into East Berlin, past the Red tanks and machine guns. By mule, by jeep, by swift motor launch, by slower one-motored aircraft and on foot with refugees themselves slogging through mud of the Hungarian soil.

Along every inch of the sharp-pronged Red wire fence I wish I had had with me the "neutrals" of the two-thirds of what is left of the world we still call free.

Fervently I wished I had with me those leaders of African nations who have told me they would have to turn to the Soviets for aid if we did not help them as fully as they requested.

But most often I wished I had with me the leaders of the world's largest unions. Something has happened to some of them — almost as eerie as sudden pitch darkness at noon.

Bitterly, this point was made by a West Berliner as we walked unmolested by the "Vopo" — the Communist people's police — through East Berlin's Marx-Engles Platz and surrounding deadened streets still laden with war rubble.

WHEN WE RETURNED to the city's Allied sector, my friend disgustedly threw a copy of Jimmy Hoffa's Teamster magazine in front of me. It was the August 1961 edition and it boasted of being "the largest labor publication in the world."

Curiously, the Teamster magazine had not a word on Berlin. From all you could gather from the editors, Berlin's heartaches, East Berlin's new draft labor code and cruel speed-ups did not exist. Why?

But the anger here is not reserved solely for the belligerent chief of the largest American union. It is also directed at the head of the German Metal Workers, which has 1.9 million members.

This outfit is led by a man virtually unknown in the U.S. But mark his name well. You'll hear much about him.

His name is Otto Brenner, a man who believes in mass militancy when it comes to denouncing employers—some of whom are Americans investing in Germany to help maintain its prosperity.

In private and public talks he mouths strange forms of neutralism. He is not enamored of the U.S. or of capitalism, for he is a militant Socialist.

Today he is quiet because he is backing Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and doesn't want to embarrass the pro-U.S. Willy Brandt, Mr. Adenauer's challenger.

Do not underestimate the impact of Otto Brenner merely because his name is known only to a handful of us in the United States.

REMEMBER he controls almost two million workers in the German auto, metal fabricating, steel and allied industries.

Remember that merely three years ago the late Patrice Lumumba was a postal clerk. Kasavubu was an unknown, and most folk didn't know or care that the Bradenburg Gate doesn't have hinges.

History has a way of hurting the "unknown" into prominence and power. And as I talked in a trade union headquarters in the heart of West Berlin there was anger, too, over the tactics of another leader of one of the world's largest unions—Socialist Frank Cousins, general secretary of the Transport and General Workers Union of Great Britain. It has 1.3 million members.

Mr. Cousins only recently boasted that he would swing the powerful British Labor party to his philosophy—a quaint one indeed, which won't exactly send up N.S. Khrushchev's blood pressure.

Mr. Cousins is England's No. 1 "unilateralist."

This simply means that he believes that Great Britain should junk its atomic, hydrogen and neutron bomb weapons without waiting for other nations to disarm.

No need waiting for the Soviets or anyone else, says Frank Cousins, about whom you'll be hearing frequently before too long.

JUST DISARM, says this militant Socialist. The Russians aren't going to attack us with atomic weapons, says this powerful unionist, they merely will try to give us a going over in economic competition. So let's get rid of our weapons.

Fortunately, he will receive quite a drubbing at the upcoming British Trades Union Congress national convention early next month.

My master is doing the writing of this letter for me because, although I consider myself very educated in the line of hunting, I have not yet mastered even "talking", as the lady reports the dogs on Pope Ave. are doing.

You know I have done a lot of chasing rabbits, but I have never had the good fortune to have one of my buddies yelp at me that I'd lost the track or I would have had that old rabbit nailed in no time flat and been hot on another track.

You know some people own those little old lap or poodle dogs that sit around on a pillow and have their hair combed. And their masters think they're real gone—well they are, because they irritate others just as much as us beagles, but in different ways.

There never was one of us dogs who wouldn't hit up the neighbor's shrubs or flowers, etc.

Let's face it, lady, this letter serves no purpose either, except for letting off steam, and that's the way us beagles do it — by barking.

Incidentally, if those dogs are talking, I am sure you could ask them (in a nice way, of course) would they please go to bed for a few nights so that you could stay up and worry about the H-bombs and the Mr. Ks.

Maybe you'd be surprised at their answers.

APACHE DUKE II
R.D. 2, East Liverpool

Is it possible for the administration and City Council to come up with some needed regulations and rules governing driving instructors in order to protect the children from another mishap like that of last Thursday in the East End?

Two small girls almost lost their lives because an out-of-town driving instructor was attempting to teach a woman how to drive her car while he was standing on the sidewalk. The woman was fined for improper backing and the instructor goes free. Does this make sense?

TEN YEARS AGO — William E. Harrington, executive head of a 600-pupil centralized school at Baltimore, Fairfield County, was named new principal of East Liverpool High School.

Mrs. Ethel Huffman and Mrs. Elsie Roberts were initiated into the Women of the Moose, Chapter 642.

THIRTY YEARS AGO — Mr. and Mrs. Guy Emmerling of Pennsylvania Ave. returned after a motor trip through Minnesota.

William Fowler of Riley Ave. resumed his duties at the fire station on Virginia Ave. after a two-week vacation.

Joseph H. Mardis of Globe St. was graduated with a degree in education from Ohio State University, Columbus.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — William S. Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Allen of W. 7th St., was commissioned a second lieutenant.

Mrs. Sarah Hall, noble grand of the Newell Rebekah Lodge 74, and Mrs. Isabell Dillon were presented merit pins.

Communication Links Need Improving

EN ROUTE FROM EUROPE The most important problem that faces the United States government today is how to communicate with other people around the world.

There is no lack of radio or mail or press facilities. It is not a matter of funds, nor altogether a problem of getting the right personnel for such an information agency. It is a matter of constructive and well-thought-out policy and concentration in a courageous way on simple objectives in the great crusade to win the hearts and minds of people in other lands.

The overseas broadcasts today from America are defensive and often seem to be in the pussyfoot category, instead of the militant kind. This isn't the fault of the Voice of America but of some misguided policy directives of past years.

Consequently, the Voice of America is inadequate and not as effective as it could be. It is doing some things well and others poorly. It, of course, needs more funds from Congress to improve its work — the Russians spend millions where we spend pennies — but, above all else, it needs a recognition by the President and Congress that the task cannot be left to subordinates to fulfill on the basis of directives fitfully supplied in a sort of haphazard way through a fluctuating diplomacy.

What the United States government needs is a man of Cabinet stature to sit alongside the president and spend his whole time on what might be called "the public relations of the United States."

What's needed is someone who has had actual contact through diplomacy or otherwise with the peoples of Latin American countries, Asian countries, Middle Eastern countries and European countries — someone with common sense who understands the psychology of foreign peoples.

HE CAN HAVE beside him plenty of specialists in communications and in the customs of the foreign press but he needs above all to be able to advise the president and his Cabinet as to how what is currently happening abroad is affected by American action and how suggested American policies would be received in other countries.

Nor is communication a problem altogether of mechanical facilities. As much, if not more, can be accomplished by indirect contact with foreign countries through word of mouth — by conversations with key persons in other lands. This means more contacts by our own diplomats with important persons not only in the press but in other walks of life in each country.

It means an organized and not a casual effort. In a total sense, it means reaching through to the heart of the people whose friendship America seeks.

Improvement of the Voice of America broadcasts is imperative. One wonders why so little time is given on these programs to news and serious subjects in the news, and why so much time is consumed on rock-and-roll music or highbrow lectures, some of which seem to apologize for America's free-enterprise system.

This writer has been listening by shortwave radio nearly every night for years, both at home and abroad, to the broadcasts of the various Communist-bloc stations as well as to the Voice of America and the overseas service of the British Broadcasting Co.

Music undoubtedly has a certain appeal in attracting listeners but it is difficult to understand the object of a radio interview with a movie star on what constitutes "sophistication."

Surely, the Voice of America could use its precious time more wisely and more effectively.

THE COMMUNISTS, of course, repeat and persist with their points day after day, and their broadcast in simple English that can be readily grasped.

Much of the broadcasting on both sides, to be sure, is done in foreign languages, and here the matter of simplicity is especially important.

These criticisms are not new. They have been made by this writer for the last decade to public officials, particularly on the wording of the broadcasts, which often are hard for the average listener abroad to catch.

Simple expressions are better for the radio than the phraseology and big words of overcondensed press association dispatches.

As for editorial commentaries that are supposed to reflect American public opinion, the selection by the Voice of America is not representative of the American press at all.

Rarely are any newspapers in the Midwest quoted and rarely are some of the best pronouncements in Congress spread abroad the world.

There is sometimes, moreover, a tendency to give a "left-wing" twist to many items, and there is at times an indifference to the conservative point in view in America.

There is constant apology, too, for various defects in the American system, without an effort to explain that even racial problems must be handled by constitutional law and not by mobs.

It is tragic that American ideals are so little expounded, while American shortcomings are so much emphasized. The whole problem of communication in foreign policy needs a new look.

How Tough Is Kennedy?

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

After seven months in office there is still a major unknown about President Kennedy: Just how tough is he?

Headaches piled up on him after he became president, forcing him to look and operate in 10 different directions at once. But this is how he's been.

1. With Congress—Mild and not tough-talking at all, although three of his most important programs were slaughtered.

Question: Is this how he'll deal with Congress the next three years?

2. In foreign affairs—Generally restrained but tough-talking with the Soviets when they pushed him into it on Berlin. There's a difference between tough talk and tough action.

Question: How tough will he be in a showdown? Judging from the way the Soviets have been probing and testing him, they want to know the answer too.

At home two things may have been a psychological handicap to him, giving him the feeling he didn't have a so-called mandate to get rough with Congress:

1. The narrow margin by which he squeaked through in the 1960 election.

2. While his Democrats outnumber Republicans 65-35 in the Senate and 263-174 in the House, the margin is thinner than it looks.

Any time the Southern Democrats in either house get mad at him, they can team up with Republicans to frustrate him.

This — fear of angering the Southerners—may explain why he failed to make good on his campaign promise to hand Congress civil rights bills very early in 1961.

To get what he wanted from Congress he has used reason, persuasion and White House pressure. He has aides who specialize in working on Congress.

So he has operated with Congress strictly as a politician dealing with politicians. Congress responded by putting through for him a number of programs he asked for. In large measure they were noncontroversial.

But on the highly controversial ones—like medical care for the aged, foreign aid, federal aid to education—he got sunk.

The medical care bill seems completely dead for this year. Any aid to education he gets will be a drastically sawed-off version of what he said he wanted. Almost certainly any foreign bill finally passed will provide much less than he said he needed.

If Kennedy operates the next three years as he did in his first one—particularly in not carrying his case to the people—the record probably will not be impressive.

All this raises an old question: Should a president, not backed up by overwhelming majorities in Congress, try to play it soft and compromise or should he assert a vigorous, tough, outspoken leadership to get what he wants in full?

Kennedy got off to a bad start in foreign affairs by approving the anti-Castro invasion, by Cuban exiles, falling flat on its face. The invasion was poorly thought out, was unsupported and never should have been permitted unless the United States meant business all the way.

This embarrassed Kennedy, and may have shaken his self-confidence a bit, undoubtedly made him cautious about any other direct action he might want to take anywhere.

4,000 Teamsters Rebelled

Hoffa's Greatest Defeat, Cincinnati Leader Claims

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — James R. Hoffa has suffered the greatest defeat of his career in Cincinnati, according to James Luken, leader of 4,000 rebelling Teamsters.

The rebels, in four locals, voted last week to leave the Teamsters Union and join the AFL-CIO.

Luken was referring to the decision of Judge Charles S. Bell of Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Thursday to grant a temporary restraining order tying up the funds of the rebel locals while refusing to recognize Teamsters Vice President Harold Gibbons as trustee for the locals.

"What this amounts to," Luken said Thursday night, "is that the judge told us to carry on until the Teamsters take the matter up again later. By that time we'll have had our National Labor Relations Board election and this thing will be settled."

Luken filed a petition with the NLRB last week to conduct an election by secret ballot on whether the members of his 2,200-member dairy drivers local want to quit the Teamsters.

The members of the local took a standing vote on the question. Hoffa and Gibbons refused to recognize the validity of this and when Luken resisted Gibbons' attempt to take over the local, the Teamsters asked for the court order.

The revolt, meanwhile, spread to Middletown, where Luken's agents signed up some 60 members of Teamsters Local 836 for his new Milk and Ice Cream Drivers and Dairy Employees Union of Greater Cincinnati and vicinity.

Planning About Finished On Freeway Link To 170

The State Highway Department expects to complete plans next month to extend the Lake Erie-to-Ohio River Freeway from the city limits in California Hollow to a point beyond the junction with Route 170, William McKenna, deputy director in charge of the Division 11 office at New Philadelphia, said today.

McKenna said as far as he knows no actual sale date has been set, explaining the department's Columbus headquarters arranges financing, advertising for bids and awarding of contracts.

Acquisition of the right-of-way for the four-lane limited access highway is continuing, McKenna said.

Progress reports on the freeway's construction in East Liverpool and Ashtabula end of the route were given at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Lake Erie - Ohio River Freeway Association Wednesday night at the Youngstown Club.

Plans to hold a joint meeting with the deputy highway directors also were outlined.

The meeting probably will be held next month, but the specific date will not be set until after the board can contact William McKenna, deputy director of Division 11 at New Philadelphia, and the Division 4 deputy director at Ravenna, Carl Campbell.

Plans also were discussed for a general membership meeting later in the fall.

Paul Mossman of Youngstown, president of the four - county organization, presided. Board members attending from Columbiana County included Atty. Francis H. Lang, immediate past president; E. R. Chandler, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, and A. P. Morris of Salem.

Lisbon Driver Cited In Car Sideswiping

LISBON — Jack Allen Warner, 38, of R. D. 1 was cited following the sideswiping of two cars on N. Market St., north of the Public Square, at 10:55 p. m. Thursday.

Police said Warner was going north, went left of center and struck a southbound car driven by Austin C. Pickall, 61, of 434 College St., East Liverpool. Minor damage was listed to the left sides of both cars.

Warner was cited for driving while intoxicated and will be given a hearing before Mayor Dean Stockman tonight.

Akron Woman Cited For Breaking Bottles

An Akron woman, who denied breaking two beer bottles in the doorway of a Market St. shoe store, will be given a hearing Monday in Municipal Court.

Mrs. Jane Watkins pleaded not guilty this morning in Municipal Court to a charge of breaking glass on the sidewalk filed by Police Lt. Clyde W. Boso, but pleaded guilty to an intoxication charge.

Judge Chertoff continued the case until Monday and set bond at $50. She and a male companion from East Liverpool were fined $15 and costs each on intoxication charges.

Lt. Boso said the woman was carrying a sack containing several bottles of beer about 1 a. m. Setting the sack in the doorway of the shoe store, she kicked it until she broke two bottles of beer, the officer said.

U.N. To Wind Up Tunisian Debate Today

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) —The U. N. General Assembly winds up its Tunisian debate tonight, and all indications point to overwhelming approval for a resolution calling on France to take her troops off Tunisian soil.

In an effort to reach a vote tonight, Assembly President Frederick H. Boland of Ireland scheduled morning, afternoon and night sessions to clean up the list of 15 speakers.

Supporters of the resolution predicted it would poll far more than the two-thirds vote needed for adoption despite expected abstentions by the United States and other allies of France.

The sponsors anticipated no more than half a dozen negative votes from colonial powers. Others opposed to the resolution in effect censuring France were expected to abstain.

The resolution calls on France to withdraw her troops from territory seized during last month's fighting around the Bizerte naval base and to negotiate a schedule for complete troop withdrawal from Tunisia. Tunisia and the resolution's 32 sponsors rejected efforts by the Western powers and African nations allied with France to delete the passages implying censure of the French.

Bitter over France's defiance of a Security Council call for a troop pullback in Bizerte and her boycott of the assembly debate, the resolution's sponsors insisted on putting the blame on the Paris government.

Their adamant stand reportedly persuaded even most of the pro-French African states to support the resolution.

The debate has been marked by running Communist attacks on all foreign bases occupied by Western powers, and Thursday there was a sharp exchange between the United States and Cuba and the Soviet Union.

Cuban delegate Mario Garcia-Inchaustegui charged that the U. S. naval base at Guantanamo exists "against Cuba" and that mercenaries are mobilizing there and in Puerto Rico to attack. He brushed aside the 1901 treaty under which the United States holds the base, asserting that the big powers could not use treaties to justify their keeping foreign bases.

U. S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson rejected the Cuban charge as absurd and said the Guantanamo base was maintained for defense of the Western Hemisphere—"not for attack on the hemisphere."

Midland Man's Car Stolen, Recovered

A car which a Midland man, who has been staying in East Liverpool, reported stolen at 5:30 a. m. today was recovered by Midland police shortly before 9 a. m., police said.

Andrew M. Sopko, 1208 Ohio Ave., Midland, who told police he has been staying at 503 College St., said his car was taken from College St. between 10:30 p. m. Thursday and 5:30 a. m. today.

Midland police advised local officers they found Sopko's car at the Midland address at 8:55 a. m. Meanwhile, Mrs. Dorothy Tucker of Amesley Rd., whose car was reported stolen and then found damaged on Walnut St. Wednesday night, told police yesterday that some paint she had purchased was missing from the auto.

Weirton Steel Lights No. 2 Blast Furnace

WEIRTON (AP) — All four blast furnaces at the Weirton Steel Co. division of National Steel Corp. are in operation after the relighting of the No. 2 facility following a two-month shutdown for relining.

President C. G. Tournay said that the No. 2 furnace had produced 3,266,294 tons of pig iron from the time it last was relined in 1954 until operations were halted on June 17 of this year.

In the renovation process, crucible walls were lined with carbon up to the center line of the slag notch; new copper cooling plates were installed; an existing gas washer was modified, and an orifice-type gas cleaner was added.

Ohio Farmers Again Fail To Okay Wheat Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio farmers took more of a voting interest in this year's wheat referendum, but once again they failed to give it the necessary two-thirds vote of approval.

Throughout the nation, however, wheat farmers approved the government program setting marketing quotas on their 1962 crops.

Ohio has not given the two-thirds vote on a wheat referendum since such balloting began in 1953, according to Ward McNeil, program supervisor for the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

In Thursday's referendum, 9,793 Ohio farmers went to the polls, compared with 3,354 last year. The vote was 5,326 for the program and 4,467 against it.

That meant 54.4 per cent favored it and 45.6 per cent opposed it. Last year the program got a 63 per cent vote of approval from Buckeye farmers.

In 1960 an estimated 45,000 farmers were eligible to vote in the referendum. This year probably more were eligible because, last year, a farmer had to plant at

County Farmers Oppose Wheat Plan

Columbiana County wheat farmers again opposed — by more than 3-to-1 — any marketing quotas on their 1962 crops. The County ASC office said 25 approved and 81 were opposed in Thursday's referendum.

Earl Lorah, ASC office director at Lisbon, said 114 votes were cast yesterday compared to 52 in 1960 and 32 in 1959. Eight of the ballots were challenged and the committee will meet today on their validity. There were 400 eligible to vote in the county.

Beaver County farmers were split — 6-to-6, according to the Beaver ASC office. The Hancock County ASC office said only two farmers were eligible and neither voted.

least 15 acres of wheat to be eligible. Under a new law, this year's eligible voters had to plant only 13 1/2 acres in at least one of the last three years, including 1961.

Jobless Up 1,100

West Virginia's Labor Force Shows July Drop

CHARLESTON (AP) — A total civilian labor force of 660,900 in West Virginia at mid-July reflected a drop of 4,500 since June and 22,700 over the past 12 months, a new Employment Security Department summary showed today.

At the same time, unemployment reflected a 1,100 increase over a one - month period to 78,700, or 11.9 per cent of the total such labor force.

The department said that the total number of employed dipped 5,600 from June to July, although only 600 of the loss occurred in non-agricultural wage and salary employment.

Non-agricultural wage and salary employment in West Virginia 443,200, also down 13,200 from that of a year ago.

The June-July decline was described as much lighter than the normal seasonal pattern, and the bulk of losses was expected to be of a temporary nature.

Despite an impact of labor - management disputes and vacation shutdowns, the department explained, manufacturing employment dipped only 100 during the month. However, it was 3,500 off the year-ago level of 126,000.

Non-manufacturing was 600 below the June estimate of 321,300 and 9,700 lower than a year ago.

The department found that the major portion of the June - July loss in non-manufacturing was centered in bituminous coal mining. "A number of mines failed to reopen immediately following the paid vacation period, resulting in an over-the-month drop of 2,100 jobs in the industry," the department said. It added:

"The 38,900 reported working was 9,100 below last month's (June's) 48,000."

Canton Lawyer Gets Sentence

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — John Beyoglies, a disbarred Canton lawyer, was sentenced to three concurrent 1-3 year terms in the Ohio Penitentiary by Common Pleas Court Judge John M. Kelly Thursday.

He pleaded guilty March 31 to four counts of obtaining money under false pretenses in an auto insurance swindle, but one count was dismissed because of improper jurisdiction.

Summit County Prosecutor John Ballard said Beyoglies was involved in five cases in which more than $34,000 was paid out by insurance companies. Beyoglies was accused of receiving more than $20,000 from the fictitious claims, some as long ago as 1955.

Berlin

be towed wherever they are needed. The garrison has been posting tanks as well as infantrymen at the border.

Neues Deutschland, the official organ of the Communist party in East Germany, contended today there is no "practical sense" to American tank movements.

The paper described the action as a provocation "and an insult to the entire German people, on whose table once again rest the dirty boots of the American soldier."

There was a series of incidents Thursday.

A West Berlin mob attacked a bus loaded with Soviet soldiers. Saboteurs halted the Red-run railway and elevated system in the Western sector for 10 minutes. East German police shot and killed a fleeing refugee.

Indication of the Communists' next moves against West Berlin was expected Friday afternoon from Walter Ulbricht, East Germany's chief of state and Communist party boss. He scheduled a television appearance in East

Berlin, speaking on "What Comes Next in Berlin."

With orders to fire if fired upon, American GIs stood guard during the night in drenching rain close up to the Communists' fortified line along with British and French forces and West Berlin police.

Brig. Gen. Frederick O. Hartel, commander of the 6,500-man U.S. garrison in Berlin, toured the border in the American sector during the early morning hours. About 600 American troops—some with rifles slung over their shoulders, others behind machine guns — maintained the night watch.

The first known fatality of the nerve war came when Communist police killed an East German who plunged into a waterway near the old Reichstag building and tried to swim to the West.

American MPs and West Berlin police rescued 25 Soviet soldiers traveling to the Red army's war memorial near the Brandenburg Gate from a mob of West Berliners shouting "Swine."

A Communist protest appeared likely over two attempts to sabotage traffic on the Red-run railway and elevated lines that still operate between East and West. Heavy steel bars were discovered blocking railroad tracks near West End station only minutes before a freight train, bound for West Germany, was due. Police said a major disaster was averted. Elevated traffic was also held up by bars across the rails.

A private Western intelligence agency reported hundreds of arrests in East Germany of persons for raising their voices against the sealing of the border.

City Woman Freed Of Assault Charges

Ruth Shreeve, employe of Central Service, Inc., of W. 7th St., was acquitted of a charge of assault and battery Thursday at a hearing before County Judge James L. MacDonald at Lisbon.

Flies and mosquitoes spoiling outdoor fun?

Never again! Now Scotts scientists make it easy for you to keep these annoying pests from plaguing you and your guests. You do this with new BOON, a potent powder easily applied with a turn of the crank of Scotts new Zephyr.

Once or twice a week you dust BOON into shrubs, flowers, foundation plantings, other areas where insects land and feed. The Scotts Zephyr atomizes BOON in a dry fog, depositing a nearly invisible film. When insects land in the vegetation and come in contact with BOON they meet their doom.

With BOON you easily make your own yard an island of freedom. There is no odor, no mess and no worry. Use as often as desired without endangering people, plants or pets. Chiggers a problem? They won't be if you drift a light cloud of BOON across the lawn.

It takes less than 10 minutes to treat the typical yard area with BOON and the Scotts Zephyr. One or two BOON treatments a week will keep insects under control — and assure you of the pleasantest summer you ever spent outdoors.

After Sharp Debate

Senate Okays Williams
As Army Reserve General

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has confirmed promotion of Gene Hal Williams, West Virginia's adjutant general, to brigadier general in the Army Reserve.

Hours of sharp debate kept the Senate in session until late yesterday evening before Williams was confirmed by a 45-37 vote.

Williams, 33-year-old brigadier general in the West Virginia National Guard, said he was "delighted, of course" by the outcome.

A solid line of democrats first beat down a move to send Williams' nomination back to the Senate Armed Services Committee and then voted to confirm his federal promotion. No Republican voted for Williams.

The committee had approved the promotion by a 10-7 vote and designated Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., to seek Senate confirmation.

The opposition was led by Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, and a quartet of her colleagues who are reserve generals. Voting against Williams were 29 Republicans and eight Democrats.

Williams was an Army Reserve major with no combat or overseas service. In the past, state adjutant generals usually won automatic promotion to one or two-star general rank in the federal reserve.

However, deputy secretary of defense Roswell L. Gilpatric has told the Senate committee that hereafter all such guard adjutants general will have to meet the same qualifications as other reservists to qualify as generals on the federal list. These qualifications include holding the rank of colonel in the reserve.

Committee chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., said a three-grade promotion leapfrog like Williams' would not be possible any more.

But Russell insisted it would have been unfair to Williams to apply tighter new regulations on his nomination.

Sen. Smith told the Senate it had rejected promotions for a dozen other generals and admirals in the past five years and said confirmation for Williams would degrade the rank of brigadier general.

Joining her were these reserve generals: Sens. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev.

Russell said some of the opposition arguments were "sheer bunk" and added there was no chance Williams "could lead your sons into battle and destroy them because of his lack of experience."

"There are many captains in our regular army today who have more years of service than any of the generals who have addressed you today," Russell said in an apparent slap at the Senate reservists.

3 UAW Locals
Vote To Strike
If Talks Fail

CLEVELAND (AP) — Authorization for a strike if national negotiations do not produce an agreement with the Big Three auto manufacturers has been voted by three more United Auto Workers locals.

William Tennant, president of Local 1045 at General Motors Corp. Fisher Body Division plant in Euclid, said members voted 1-102 to 45 Thursday in favor of a strike if negotiations fail.

Members of Local 425 of Ford Motor Co.'s assembly plant in Lorain voted 1,485 to 121 in favor of a strike, according to President Walter Humphrey.

Robert Weissman, president of Local 122 at Chrysler Corp.'s plant at Twinsburg, said the vote there was 1,569 to 71 in favor of a strike.

The three Thursday brought to seven the number of locals in the Cleveland area that have voted in favor of strike authorization.

Powell And Allyson
Likely To Reconcile

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A spokesman for actor Dick Powell says he and wife June Allyson probably will reconcile.

The couple was granted an interlocutory divorce last Jan. 31 after a 15-year marriage. Under California law, the divorce is not final until Jan. 31, 1962.

The spokesman said Thursday Powell, 56, and his actress wife, 37, had been living together since they visited their children vacationing in Monterey, Calif. Miss Allyson recently suffered a kidney stone ailment there.

Worked On Laboratory Animals

Anticancer Vaccine Tests
On Humans Loom In '62

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A Cleveland scientist says he is ready to prepare for tests on humans an anticancer vaccine that has worked on laboratory animals.

Dr. Sergio de Carvalho said actual production and use of such a vaccine would take about a year to prepare for. Antibodies that would be used to fight cancer in humans, he said, would be grown in horses.

He said efforts are being made to develop serum that would work effectively against different but related types of cancers. He does not think a single serum would fight all types of cancer.

Dr. de Carvalho announced on Thursday he has developed an immunizing serum that was used to treat and prevent cancer and leukemia in animals. Preliminary reports are encouraging, he said, but it may be some time before any conclusive findings can be reached.

With this serum, he said, he has protected rats with a high susceptibility to cancer so that no cancer implants take hold in them.

Dr. de Carvalho, director of cancer research with Rand Development Corp. here, reported his findings at the 19th annual meeting of the Electron Microscope Society of America in Pittsburgh.

He said he worked closely with scientists from Parke, Davis & Co., a Detroit pharmaceutical firm.

Moisture-Laden
Air Dominates
Ohio's Weather

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Moisture-laden air continued to dominate the Ohio weather during the night.

Heavy cloudiness was predominant, and thundershowers were widely scattered throughout the state. Rainfall amounts were mostly light, averaging one-tenth of an inch, but locally heavy showers gave Dayton a 24-hour total of eight-tenths of an inch and Cincinnati one-half inch.

Early morning temperatures varied from 61 at Toledo to 69 at Columbus. Cincinnati had 67 and Cleveland and Bellaire 68.

Warm, moist air will continue to dominate the Ohio weather during the next 24 hours. Mostly cloudy skies will prevail today and tonight, with scattered thundershowers.

Saturday will be partly cloudy with scattered afternoon and evening thundershowers. Little temperature change is foreseen during the next 24 hours.

Not Slaying Suspect

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP) — An inmate in a mental hospital here has been all but ruled out as a suspect in the slaying of Cincinnati policeman Donald Martin last March 11, Queen City detectives said Thursday after questioning the man.

In rowing parlance, when an oarsman fails to raise the oar clear of the water on recovery it is referred to as "catching a crab."

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT

- Psoriasis
- Poison Ivy—Children
- Arthritis

Q. Is there any effective treatment for psoriasis?

A. The most effective treatment for psoriasis reported to date consists of injections of a cortisone-like preparation directly into the skin at the border of each lesion. The injections are, of course, made by a physician. A New Jersey doctor treated 19 cases in this way. There was complete success in 13 cases—some success in all the others. The new injection treatment seems almost too good to be true in view of the stubborn nature of psoriasis.

Q. Are children more or less susceptible than adults to poison ivy rash?

A. From about 3 years on, children are about as susceptible to poison ivy as adults. Infants and children up to 3 are somewhat less susceptible.

Dispensing prescribed medicine is what we do best . . . do promptly . . . and do at reasonable cost. Trust your health to your doctor — trust his prescriptions to us.

Q. I have heard that beer is highly nutritious. True or false?

A. Beer provides about 160 calories per 12-ounce container. It furnishes energy, but not protein or vitamins. The only vitamin present in significant amounts is niacin. Beer is low in sodium, as often claimed, but two 12-ounce bottles would contain enough sodium to bother a person on the usual low-salt diet.

Q. I have hypertrophic arthritis. Is there any treatment other than aspirin and heat? I am only 43 years old.

A. Hypertrophic arthritis, also referred to as "osteoarthritis," is reported to occur in most people past 50 or so, but causes symptoms in only about 5 to 10 per cent. Various drugs and hormones have at one time or another been used in treatment of this condition but results are anything but spectacular. The basic medical methods of treatment have remained about the same for some years. They include: a drug to control pain; rest; support; exercise; heat; weight reduction and time.

Miss Mary Buckius Weds Clyde Beaver Jr. On Aug. 11

Miss Mary Buckius, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Buckius of Salem, became the bride of Clyde Beaver Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Beaver of Vale St., Glenmoor, the evening of Aug. 11 at 7 o'clock at the First Church of the Nazarene.

The Rev. James Hunton, pastor, officiated for the single-ring ceremony. Mrs. Mary Jackson gave a piano recital of nuptial music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace and taffeta. The fitted bodice featured a scalloped neckline and the bouffant skirt was appliqued with lace motifs.

Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was held in place by a crown of pearls and iridescent sequins. She carried a white Bible topped with an arrangement of white carnations and satin streamers. Observing the traditions, she had a sixpence in her shoe. Her pearl pendant was the gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Connie Beaver, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She wore a pink ballerina-length gown with matching crown and veil. Her Colonial bouquet was of white carnations tied with satin streamers.

Don Stanley was best man and Robert Dawson, usher.

The mother of the bride wore a brown taffeta dress with matching accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother chose a beige sheath with brown accessories and yellow carnation corsage.

A reception for 50 was held on the lawn of the bridegroom's parents home. A three-tier cake, topped with miniature bride and groom, centered the buffet table. Lighted tapers, decorated with lily-of-the-valley, completed the setting.

Aides were Mrs. Winifred Jackson, Mrs. Myrtle Dawson, Mrs. Beverly Jackson and Mrs. Becky Jackson.

For her honeymoon trip through Northeastern Ohio, the bride wore a black and white ensemble with matching accessories.

The newlyweds attended East Liverpool High School. The bride resided the past year with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brennan of Holiday St.

They are residing with the bridegroom's parents. He has enlisted in the Air Force and is waiting assignment.

Rusk's Son Weds Argentine Girl In Catholic Rites

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—U. S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk's son David married a 20-year-old Argentine brunette at a Roman Catholic ceremony attended by 700 persons Thursday night.

The bride, Delcia Bence, is the daughter of a wealthy physician and cattleman. She and David met in 1957 when she was a student in Scarsdale, N. Y., his home town.

David's mother was among the guests but the secretary was unable to leave Washington.

Young Rusk and his bride, who went through a civil ceremony here July 12, will honeymoon in Mexico and then go to Berkeley, Calif., where he is studying economics at the University of California.

Mrs. DiSalle Cuts Ribbon To Open Fair

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio State Fair opened here this morning. Mrs. Michael V. DiSalle, wife of the governor, cut the ribbon, officially opening the eight-day affair.

Mrs. DiSalle was pinch-hitting for her husband, who is on vacation.

With a break from the weather, fair officials expect the largest turnout ever for the 1961 fair. They have arranged extensive exhibits and entertainment features to fit practically any taste.

Porter Cited In Stab Death Of Physician

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP)—A department store porter was accused today of murdering a well-to-do Long Island physician and stabbing his wife, also a doctor, in their home.

Police lodged a first-degree murder charge against Theodore Roosevelt Stovall, 28, a Negro.

Dr. Paul Behrendt, 65, was stabbed so viciously that three of his ribs were cut through. He died almost immediately.

His wife, Dr. Frances Behrendt, 55, was stabbed several times and is in fair condition at Nassau Hospital in Mineola.

Stovall, booked on the murder charge at 2 a.m. after hours of questioning, denied any connection with the crime. He had been arrested three blocks from the murder scene Thursday.

Police refused to reveal the evidence they claimed to have against Stovall. Neither would they disclose how they traced him to the home of his sister, where he was seized.

Police said Stovall is not a narcotics addict and was looking for money and other valuables when he broke into the Behrendt's $35,000 home in this fashionable New York City suburb shortly before 1 a.m. Thursday.

Earlier, police had suspected that the housebreaker, who fled apparently without loot, was looking for narcotics in locked cabinets in the house.

Stovall told police he had gone to visit his sister, Shirley Stovall at 6 p.m. Wednesday.

Police said they could find no criminal record for Stovall, who moved to New York City from Philadelphia four months ago. They said his estranged wife and a son are living in Philadelphia.

Stovall, who has a nickname, "Teddy Bear," has been working as a $35-a-week porter in a department store in Brooklyn since arriving from Philadelphia.

He has been living in the Queens section of New York City.

Raccoon Youths Arrested In Car

Three youths from a juvenile detention camp at Raccoon Creek State Park in Beaver County were apprehended near Pittsburgh early today with a car of a Washington (Pa.) man which they had stolen Thursday night.

The Pennsylvania State Police at Carnegie said Millville police took the trio into custody after the car — owned by Theodore Littleberry of Washington — ran out of gas.

Being held by Allegheny County juvenile authorities are a 14-year-old of Pittsburgh, and one 17, and another 18, both of Philadelphia.

They took the auto about 9 p.m. and were apprehended at 2 a.m., police said. The youths were at the forestry camp at Morgantown Boys Home.

Foundation Aide's Speaker

Chester Lions Told Of Sight Work

The work of the West Virginia Lions Sight Conservation Foundation was outlined by a top Lions Club official at a "Ladies Night" banquet of the Chester club Thursday at which a 9-year-old Lawrenceville boy, who has benefited from the fund, was a guest.

Keith Waide, aided by the club, talks with Walter Jordan, club president, and Frederick Weimer of Wheeling at the dinner.

Weimer, Lions International counselor, explained the purposes and operations of the foundation at the dinner held at the Durbin Memorial Center of the Methodist Church.

Waide's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Waide, also were guests. The foundation provided an artificial eye for the youth who lost an eye over a year ago when accidentally shot by a playmate with an air gun.

Weimer explained the foundation provides eye surgery, corneal transplants and other sight benefits for individuals needing financial aid when the costs become too great for local Lions clubs.

Another Chester area resident was recently presented a special pair of glasses by the foundation.

The foundation has employed fulltime nurses in some counties to test students' sight, has financed two corneal transplants in its two-year existence and has helped in other projects.

West Virginia, he said, was the third state in the nation to set up a program through which individuals may donate their eyes after death so that some living blind person may see.

Money for the foundation has been raised by the sale of perfume and fruit bowls in which the Chester club participated. A West Virginia Centennial license plate sale will be held this fall for additional funds, he said.

Three eye pledge cards were signed by persons willing to donate their eyes at death for transplants or for research.

The public is invited to participate in the program, and pledge cards may be obtained from club members.

On display was an eye container from Weirton General Hospital, provided by the foundation, which is used to transplant eyes.

Jordan reported the Chester club had purchased four pairs of glasses for local school pupils during August at a cost of $97. Two more have been approved.

Robert Bowly played violin selections, and group singing was led by Anthony Bernardi, accompanied by Jean Bowly.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Zack Springer of the Valley Grove Lions Club. He is immediate past district governor.

Dinner was served by the Dorcas Circle of the church.

A Board of Directors meeting will be held Sept. 7. Next regular meeting is Sept. 14.

Ways Sought To Reconcile Clashes Of Religious Groups

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—A wide-ranging search began today for ways to help reconcile the clashes between American religious groups over public issues.

Top leaders of various faiths, from Rome to Geneva to Jerusalem, were to be consulted in the process.

Also, examples in the Old World were expected to provide some answers to problems in the New World.

The effort is being led by a key interdenominational diplomat Dr. Lewis Webster Jones, president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Noting intensified conflicts between religious groups in this country over various questions, such as public support for parochial schools, birth control policies, Sunday closing laws and other matters, he said: "Unless some clearer consensus can be reached, the strength and unity which America has drawn from the common acceptance of the Judeo-Christian tradition will be weakened and dissipated."

"Neither at home nor abroad can Americans afford such a loss."

As an initial part of the new four-year project, underwritten with a $325,000 Ford Foundation grant, Dr. Jones left today for conferences with high religious officials, and to survey advanced interfaith amity in Europe.

Particularly to be examined, he said, is the "dialogue approach" to community cooperation and mutual understanding, a movement that has mushroomed abroad and is spreading in this country.

It has chiefly involved Protestant-Roman Catholic parleys.

Truce In Kenya To Bring Bid For Its Independence

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—With Jomo Kenyatta's blessing, Kenya's two leading political parties patched up their differences today to demand independence from Britain by next February.

Tom Mboya's Kenya African National Union (KANU) and the Kenya African Democratic Union (KADU) said they are ready to unite in an interim coalition government.

Kenyatta, 71-year-old nationalist leader detained by the British for nine years on charges of leading the Mau Mau antiwhite terrorist uprising, was given his complete freedom this week.

Kenyatta is favored by both parties to become the colony's first prime minister.

Youth, 17, Gets Life For Murder

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio (AP)—Glen Wilson, 17, pleaded guilty to a second-degree murder charge in common pleas court Thursday and Judge Cletus A. Fisher sentenced him to life imprisonment in the Mansfield Reformatory. He will be eligible for parole consideration in 10 years.

The youth had pleaded innocent to a first-degree murder indictment in the shotgun slaying of his stepfather, Whitman Grell, 61, April 28 in the basement of their home near East Sparta.

Sheriff's deputies found Grell's body wrapped in a tarpaulin in a cornfield near Magnolia May 2. They said Wilson told them he shot his stepfather because Grell threatened to hit him with a chain.

Under House Arrest

PARIS (AP)—Exiled Spanish Gen. Valentino Gonzales has been put under house arrest in northern France, the Interior Ministry announced today. Gonzales, a Communist leader known as El Campesino during the Spanish Civil War, was accused of directing a recent series of raids into Spain by Spanish exiles based in France.

To New Life - And Much Better One

East German Doctor Tells Of Frantic Dash To West

Dr. Ernst Lehnardt, a staff doctor at East Berlin's Charite Hospital, fled to West Berlin with his family shortly after the Communists closed the border Aug. 13. Writing for The Associated Press, he tells of his mounting dissatisfaction with life under communism and of his final desperate dash to "a completely new life—but such a better one."

By DR. ERNST LEHNARDT
Written for The AP
BERLIN (AP)—My wife, our 6-year-old son and I lived in Karlshorst, a good residential area in East Berlin. We had our own house. It was large, with a pleasant garden, but run down. We could not get any repairs because of the labor shortage.

Though only 37, I held a position of responsibility at the Charite Hospital, East Germany's best. My salary from the state was 2,000 marks ($500 at the official exchange rate) a month, which put me in a high income group under the Communist regime.

But although my professional career was advancing, I could not abide the Communist regime and often spoke out against it even though I knew the risks. Because of the doctor shortage I was not bothered much, and my feeling of obligation to my patients kept me from fleeing.

In the first two weeks of August our neighbors—when sure they were not being overheard—could talk of only one thing: Would the sector border between East and West Berlin remain open? Since hundreds of people were escaping to the West daily, we all knew that something had to happen. The question was what and when. Conditions at the hospital were becoming catastrophic during these days. Three doctors failed to come back to work in our clinic one Monday morning. They had fled to the West. The Communist functionaries told me, the acting administrative head of the clinic, that I would be held responsible for further defections.

The number of nurses and cleaning women grew smaller from day to day. West Berliners we employed were deciding not to cross over.

Supplies and equipment were very short. What we did have came mostly from the West.

On the evening of Aug. 11 a telephone call came from friends in East Germany. They wanted to visit us the next day. Why so suddenly, we asked. They said they had decided to flee to West Berlin. I was to drive them over the border Sunday morning, with their few pieces of luggage. Since I was a doctor, with a certain freedom of movement, there would be no trouble.

How many friends already had come to us under these circumstances. It had happened so often that we had practically none left. Why did we remain? We asked ourselves that Saturday. What was holding us in East Berlin, which we hated so much?

Saturday night, after our friends had arrived and we had all gone to bed, I thought I heard the rumble of moving tanks. But I was only half-awakened and fell back asleep again without looking.

Early in the morning our friends rushed in from the living room, where they had turned on the radio. They had just heard the announcement that the border had been closed.

My wife and I decided immediately that the time had come for us—for our own sakes, for the sake of our child.

I had to put my own family first. My little car could not carry us all. We bade the saddest of farewells to our friends.

Hurrying all of us—including our dog—into the car, I made for the Brandenburg Gate by the shortest route. It seemed to be the likeliest place to get through; if that was still possible, because of the great width of the crossing there.

The nearer we got to the Brandenburg Gate, the thicker became the people's police, the Communist soldiers, the tanks.

When we were about 100 yards away, a policeman stopped us. As of today, he said, only I could go over to West Berlin, and then not unless I could prove I had official business. My family would have to stay behind.

I argued that I was needed urgently and could not waste time by taking my family back to the house. The policeman would not yield. Finally I asked to speak with his chief.

Then it happened. The fear of pistols and submachineguns disappeared before the fear of a life-time of captivity.

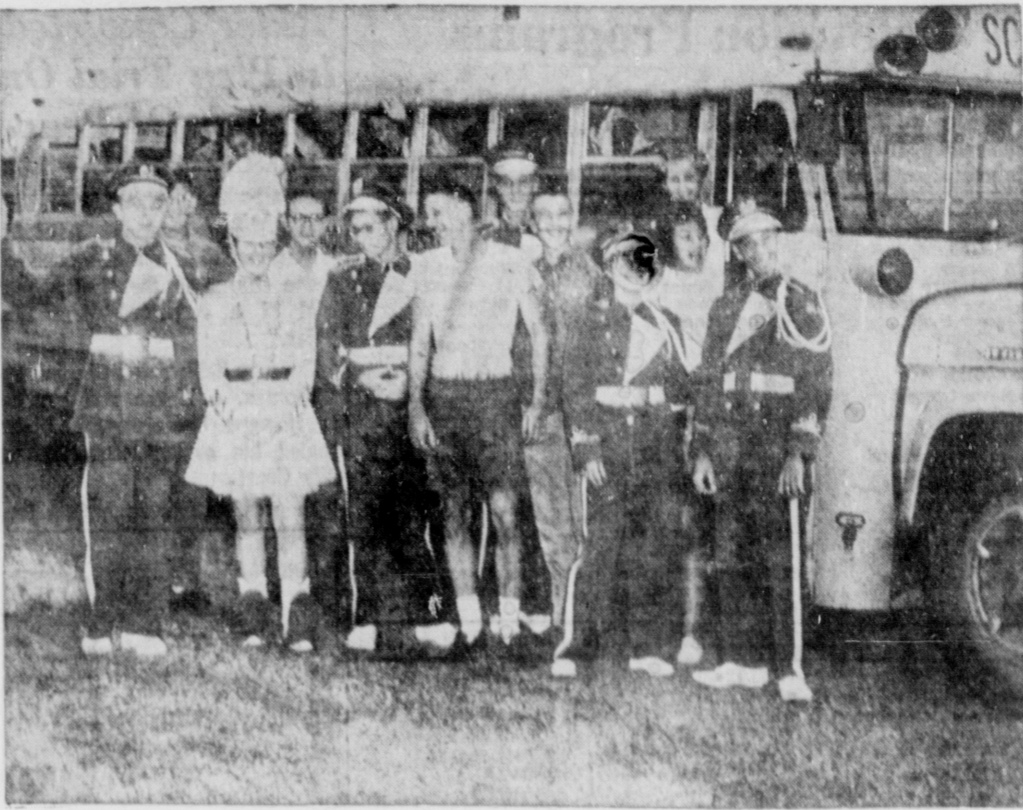

I threw the car into gear and raced forward. The soldiers and policeman stared, too startled to act. One stood in my way but jumped aside as I kept coming.

Before they could recover I had reached the safety of the traffic on the West Berlin side. My car was lost among the others.

Freedom at last.

I went to friends in West Berlin, who are finding me a place on the staff of a Hamburg hospital. I will go there with my family in a few days. We have nothing. We have to start all over again.

It will be a completely new life—but such a better one.

OFF TO THE FAIR. Beaver Local High School band members boarded two buses this morning for a trip to Columbus and the Ohio State Fair where they are scheduled to play a concert tonight for the opening of the week-long event. The 50-member band, directed by J. Warren Campbell, is to return Saturday. The Beaver Local band played at the fair in 1959.

Son Of Family At Salineville Is Bridegroom

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Beadnell of Bergholz R. D. have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Nancy Beadnell of Canton, to Theodore (Bob) Roberts of Minerva.

The ceremony was performed Aug. 18 at the First Methodist Church at Winchester, Va., by the Rev. Ronald Clark.

The bride is a former resident of Wellsville and East Liverpool. Her husband is the son of T. R. Roberts of Pittsburgh and Mrs. Margaret Roberts of Salineville.

The bride is employed by Nationwide Insurance Co. in Canton and her husband works for the L. E. Myers Construction Co. there. They will reside in Canton.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Sweeney of West End held a surprise party for Franki Parson Tuesday evening in observance of his 14th birthday.

Games were played and lunch was served.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Okey Parsons of East Liverpool.

Kenny Orr Johnson of Ft. Gordon, Ga., is spending a furlough at the Dave Orr home on W. Main St.

Miss Mayme Graubner, who has spent the last two years in Arizona, arrived at her home Tuesday for an extended stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Neal Strabley of Salem visited Thursday with Miss Myrtle Strabley.

Boosters Club Plans Canvass At Palestine

EAST PALESTINE — About 20 attended a meeting of the Boosters Club Thursday night at the high school stadium at which Harry McGahan, president, was re-elected and plans were made for a membership drive.

A house-to-house drive for membership funds will be held Sept. 6 at 7 p. m.

Gale Beatrice was elected secretary-treasurer.

A request for the group to obtain film for movies of high school football games was made by Rey Dempsey, new coach. Dempsey reported the grid squad is smaller this year than usual — 26 or 27 — and has been reduced in the past few days by injuries.

The group will meet again Thursday night at 7 at the stadium.

BPW Airs Plans On City Project

Further plans for the "City Beautification" project were discussed at the meeting of the public affairs committee of the Business and Professional Women's Club Thursday night with Miss Shirley Hartt of Perry Ave.

Mrs. Faye Wright, chairman, presided for business. Each member presented a report on suggestions. Tours through the Coca-Cola Co. plant and Golden Star Dairy Co. were set for Sept. 18.

Miss Frances Jones, president, was a guest. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Mae Hartt.

Others present were Mrs. Helen Bradfield, Mrs. Martha White and Mrs. Kathleen Reed.

Next meeting is Sept. 21 with Mrs. White of Lemon St.

An 82-year-old city woman injured in a fall was admitted Thursday to City Hospital, where nine area residents were treated following separate mishaps.

Mrs. Etta Whiteside, 255 Moore St., is in "fair" condition today with a hip injury suffered in a fall in a driveway. She was admitted at 1:30 p. m.

Vera Pamela Strum, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Strum of Chester R. D. 1, was treated last night for a wound of the right cheek suffered when bitten by a horse while at the Hookstown Fair.

Patty Lynn, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Lynn of Lisbon R. D. 3, received fractures of three toes when a log fell on her right foot.

Edith Werkheiser, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Werkheiser, 855 Plutus Ave., Chester, suffered a deep irregular laceration of the left forehead when struck by a hammer at a Chester playground.

In a fall from a bicycle, Cathy Hammond, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hammond, 327 1st St., Wellsville, received a laceration of the scalp.

Donald Fouse, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fouse, 230 Carolina Ave., Maplewood, suffered a puncture wound of the left foot when he stepped on a nail playing at a neighbor's home.

Sue Curran, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Curran, 113 Center St., was treated for a fracture of the right leg after a fall from a swing at home.

Roberta Yost, 17, daughter of Mrs. Bernice Klipich, 10 Midcrest, Midland, received a bruised right arm when caught in a washing machine wringer.

Elliott Adkins, 1, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Adkins of Calcutta, suffered a cut of the scalp in a fall in a play pen.

Thomas Schmidbauer, 11, son of Mrs. Sophia Schmidbauer of Shadyside Ave., received a thumb-nail injury on a bicycle chain.

Fireman's Ready To OK Paper In Disability Case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — City fireman Martin Leo Sachs says he's ready to sign an affidavit with the Veterans Administration attesting to the fact that Mike Wolenski of Omaha was wounded while serving with the Army on the beaches of Normandy, France, during World War II.

Wolenski needs proof he was wounded to obtain total disability payments from the government, instead of the nominal pension he now receives.

Sachs, 44, Wolenski's platoon sergeant during the war, said he spoke to Wolenski by phone Thursday night. "I don't remember the dates (sic) on it, but I do remember the incident," Sachs said of Wolenski's wounding.

An Associated Press story telling of Wolenski's problem led to the finding of Sachs.

Gas Firm Plans Wheeling Center

A six-story office building faced in blue enameled steel will be completed next June for the Manufacturers Light & Heat Co. in Wheeling. The utility serves Chester, Newell and other Hancock County communities.

C. M. Taylor, district manager, said the $800,000 building will be set back from the intersection of the southwest corner to permit extensive landscaping of a spacious entrance and a drive-in booth.

McKnight Plaza, Inc., of Pittsburgh is the developer and owner of the 90-x-90-foot site. It has a long-term lease agreement with Manufacturers.

Financing for the building was arranged by McKnight through Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co., Milwaukee.

The architect is John J. Rietz of Steubenville.

Engstrom & Wynn, Inc., of Wheeling, general contractor, will begin demolition early in September of three existing buildings at the corner.

Nine months will be needed to erect the 90-foot structure, framed in a "curtain wall" of aluminum, glass and porcelain enamel.

Luther Burbank invented the shasta daisy. He blended daisies from England, Japan and America into this one beautiful flower.

Company Would Buy Radio, TV Stations

WASHINGTON (AP) — United Printers and Publishers, Inc., has petitioned the Federal Communications Commission for authority to buy five radio and five television stations.

United, a Delaware corporation specializing in greeting cards and gift wrapping and note paper, proposes to purchase the stations from WPIT, Inc., of Pittsburgh, Pa., and WSTV, Inc., of Steubenville, Ohio. purchase price would be $1,300,000.

WSTV owns radio stations KODE in Joplin, Mo.; WSTV, Steubenville; and WBOY, Clarksburg, W. Va., and television stations KODE, Joplin; WSTV, Steubenville; WRGP, Chattanooga, and WBOY, Clarksburg.

United Printers and Publishers said in its application that each stockholder in WSTV, Inc., would receive 113.63 shares of United stock for each share of WSTV, Inc. stock.

Wife Due To Leave Hospital Not Knowing Family's Dead

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa (AP) —Judith Maguire was supposed to go home from the hospital today or Saturday to her husband and four children.

Officials delayed telling her she doesn't have a family anymore.

The distraught husband, Wilfred J. Maguire, 33, a Council Bluffs truck driver, killed the children and himself Thursday and left a note saying he couldn't take it any longer.

In the morning, before the oldest children, Mary Frances, 14, Floyd, 13, and William, 12, awoke from their sleep, Maguire strangled them with a cord ripped off a venetian blind.

But the youngest child, Danny, 6, had awakened. Maguire put him in the family car and drove out on Interstate Highway 29. A stalled stock truck was parked on the shoulder there.

Maguire crashed into the rear of the truck deliberately, according to Dr. A. L. Sciortino, county medical examiner. Maguire and Danny died in the wreck.

This was the story put together by the sheriff's office after brothers of Maguire found the older children dead in their beds.

A suicide note Maguire had written referred to his troubles, his bills and a traffic accident last February in which both he and his wife had been injured.

Mrs. Maguire had suffered from recurrent headaches and a week ago she went to the hospital for treatment.

Walker 'Muzzled, Relegated To Obscurity,' Lausche Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D - Ohio, has charged that Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker has been "muzzled" and "relegated to obscurity" for doing what he thought was his patriotic duty.

Lausche told the Senate Thursday that he recently attended a veterans reunion with Walker, who was removed from his infantry command in Germany after charges that he had pressed John Birch Society teachings in his troop training program and made derogatory remarks about several prominent persons.

Lausche said Walker has been "muzzled" because he believed that as a patriot he owed his country the duty of pointing out the evils of Communism and the virtues of our system of government.

The Army said Walker was reprimanded after it was determined he had told a PTA meeting in Germany that former President Harry Truman, former Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt were "leftist influenced."

Rep. Samuel L. Devine, R-Ohio, has introduced a resolution asking for a appointment of a special House - Senate investigating committee to look into the Walker case.

Producer Worries About TV's Morale

Sheldon Leonard would like to see TV treated with more respect. He feels that the medium has been unjustly downgraded, especially by the people working in it.

"I'll admit part of my desire for TV to be respected is a selfish one. It's my livelihood, and I hate to hear it constantly being knocked," says Leonard, in a note of genuine pain. Twenty years ago he could have intimidated these knockers into the big respect. He had one of the best sneers in the business then.

As an actor, he was usually cast in the role of a mug who beat his adversaries into submission just by towering over them and snarling. "Yeah!"

BUT LEONARD hadn't acted for years. He's a very solid citizen with a big manse in Beverly Hills. He's a director - producer and partner with Danny Thomas in some of the most successful series on TV ("Danny Thomas Show," "Andy Griffith Show," "Real McCoys") and currently coming up with two new ones ("Dick Van Dyke" and "Joey Bishop").

When a fellow reaches such august status, he naturally likes to believe his occupation is a cut above the guy's who plays piano in a honky-tonk.

"But I'm not just thinking about myself," says Leonard. "The morale of the people in TV who are really trying is damaged by those who always are knocking it."

"I'm ready to go along with a little constructive disapproval, but what about some recognition of the good things TV does every week?"

"THIS CHARGE that network limitations make it impossible to do quality television is not true. The limitations are crippling the medium, but not killing it."

Leonard, who will spend a couple of hours on this subject with anyone who wants to listen, thinks that TV suffers more from lack of ingenuity on the part of the creative people in it than from censorship inflicted by networks and sponsors.

What Leonard would like to find most of all at the moment (besides respect for TV) is some good new comedy writers.

"In nine years I've found only three new comedy writers," he says, "and I guess I've tried out at least 100. Everybody is still feeding off the old radio comedy writers. When they are gone, I don't know what we'll do."

THE LACK of live audiences in this age of filmed TV has made it difficult, Leonard thinks, for new comedy writers to develop.

"In the old days of radio, we always had an audience to tell writers and comics if a line or situation was funny or not. This trial - and - error experience gave writers a crucible to be tested in. How do you teach people to swim if the pools have no water?" Leonard wants to know.

The responsibility for keeping the pools filled with water belongs to the networks, Leonard opines. Local productions by network-sponsored workshops are one way to do it, he says.

Leonard is active in the academy of Television Arts and Sciences and admits this organization should take a hand in nurturing new writers and other talents important to the industry's output.

"WE'RE WORKING on it, but meantime there are shows to produce, and I still say they are better than most people give them credit for being," says the steady Leonard.

"A lot still can be said within the framework of commercial TV. We've got a show coming up where the husband has to leave town on an important business trip, but the wife says he can't because Junior's going to be in the school play, as a bunny, and the kid will be disturbed if his father isn't there."

"Now here we're facing the age-old problem of the emasculation of principles. Is the old man going to tell his wife that the trip is more important, which it is, or is he going to fold up?"

"Well?" I ask, dutifully.

"Watch our new 'Dick Van Dyke' show and find out," Leonard replies, with all the pride of a new father.

WOHI To Give Special Program

A special dedication program will be held next Friday from 1 to 2 p.m. by stations WOHI and WOHI-FM to commemorate the introduction of new programming of the FM facility.

According to General Manager Joseph D. Coons, the program will include comments by the governors of Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, business executives of the FM station's service area and the station management.

Inauguration of the service will conclude the duplicating of WOHI-AM programs on WOHI-FM. Coons pointed out. It features a program of balanced music that is taped, recorded and played by automated equipment. "This system of production assures the audience of quality programs both as far as content and fidelity are concerned," Coons said.

WOHI is owned and operated by the Constrander Corp. of East Liverpool.

Laborers End Strike

With Pact Agreement

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A common laborers union has reached agreement with the Constructors Association of Western Pennsylvania, ending an eight - week strike, the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette said today.

The strike had tied up $60 million worth of public works.

The newspaper said the 2,500 members of the Laborers District Council of Western Pennsylvania planned to return to work today.

The two-year pact provides a 16½-cent hourly pay hike this year and a 15-cent hourly boost in 1962, the newspaper said.

Nicholas Stiron, head of the laborers union, had asked for increases of 17½ cents each year.

2 Cyclists Killed

ALVARADO, Calif. (AP)—Two motorcyclists, Richard Prudencio, 22, of Castro Valley, and Peter Rodriguez, 25, of Hayward, were killed Thursday night when their machines collided. Sheriff's deputies said each was riding the other's bike. They had switched machines for a test run.

4,500 May Join Retirement Plan

CHARLESTON (AP)—About 4,500 State Road Commission laborers, mechanics and other hourly, full-time workers may be able to join the new West Virginia Public Employees Retirement System.

Yesterday Atty. Gen. C. Donald Robertson informed George Duffield, executive secretary of the pension system, such workers were eligible to join the system.

A full-time worker, under retirement system rules, is a person employed for a full year and who averages at least four hours of work daily.

Robertson also said that commissions received by sheriffs and assessors are not salaries under terms of the retirement act. As a result they should not be used as any part of the base compensation in withholding the employees' 3½ per cent pay contribution or in estimating the employer's 5½ per cent contribution to the pension plan.

Justices of the peace paid on a salary basis, such as those in Kanawha County, are entitled to join the plan, Robertson also said.

Unit Seeks To Speed

North-South Freeway

CLARKSBURG, W. Va. (AP)—The Upper Monongahela Valley Association met here today to discuss ways of speeding up construction of a North-South highway.

The proposed route through the state would extend from the Pennsylvania border north of Morgantown to the Beckley area.

'Rider' Convicted In Plea Trial On Breach Of Peace

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A 12-man, all-white jury Thursday convicted Henry Thomas, 19, of St. Augustine, Fla., on a breach of peace charge in the first appeal trial of a convicted "Freedom Rider."

The jury deliberated 45 minutes. Thomas, a Negro and student at Howard University, had appealed his earlier conviction in City Court.

Thomas was given a $200 fine

Mechanic To See Heiress Bride-With Chaperone

MINEOLA, N. Y. (AP)—Gavage mechanic George Lisberg has won the right to see his teenage heiress bride, starting tonight—but it will be a chaperoned affair.

Lisberg, 20, eloped July 1 with Jane Ellen Haughey, 17, of Old Brookville, daughter of a Wall Street broker. Her father, Robert A. Haughey Jr., learned of the marriage last week and forbade Jane Ellen to see Lisberg again.

Youth, 14, Drowns

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—David H. Dennis, 14, of Columbus, drowned Thursday when he and a friend tried to swim to an island in the middle of the Scioto River here.

The youth said he last saw his wife Monday.

Lisberg sought a writ of habeas corpus. Thursday a State Supreme Court hearing was put over to Sept. 6 but the following temporary agreement was reached: George and Jane Ellen may be together from 8 to 10 p.m. on Fridays and Tuesdays, and from 1 to 5 p.m. on Sundays—with Jane Ellen's mother present. Justice Mario Pittoni ruled the father may not be present.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is the principal of a high school, so you will understand why I can't go anywhere else for help.

We've been happily married for many years and have a beautiful family. Last night I had a dream about the assistant principal. He is pleasant and friendly, married and has children. He has never made an out-of-the-way move and I consider him an acquaintance and nothing more.

In my dream we both left our families to go off together. It all seemed so real that when I awakened I scarcely could believe it had not actually happened. Do dreams mean anything? I am filled with guilt and shame. Please help.—NUMB.

Dear Numb: Stop worrying. If people could be held responsible for their dreams, our jails wouldn't be able to hold them all.

When one dreams, his subconscious takes over. All inhibitions are removed and the mind wanders around freely — with no regard for respectability, morals or consequences.

It's how you live that counts and not what your dreams are made of. Just make sure you keep the two separate.

Blind To Faults

Dear Ann: My husband always is picking my family apart but he thinks everyone on his side is perfect. Please settle a little argument.

When my husband's nephew, Bart, was graduated from college we sent him a nice piece of genuine rawhide luggage. Two months later we ran into Bart at a family wedding. He greeted us warmly and said, "Oh, I want to thank you for that great suitcase."

When we got home I told my husband I felt it was pretty poor manners for his nephew to have waited until he ran into us to have thanked for the gift. I think he should have written a note.

My husband claims men don't have to write thank-you notes—just women. How about this? —STILL MAD.

Dear Still: Men accept gifts, don't they? Why, then, should they be excused from acknowledging them?

Men who find it difficult to write notes should pick up the phone — even if it means a long-distance call. Waiting until he bumped into you to say "thanks for the suitcase" was inexcusable behavior.

A Double Life

Dear Ann: I am leading a double life and it's killing me. Here is my problem and I need your help.

I went with Lanny for six months and was really crazy about him. My best girl friend was going with Lanny's best buddy and we used to doubledate a lot.

Then one day Lanny told me that he and Kate had fallen for each other and he wanted to go steady with her instead. This just about finished me off, but I was very gracious and pretended that it didn't bother me.

Kate still considers me her best friend and says I was noble to take it the way I did. She describes in detail everything Lanny says and does and asks for advice on how to hold him.

I hate it when she talks about him. My stomach is tied in knots all the time. What can I do after pretending to be such a good sport?—SICK.

Dear Sick: Stop pretending. People who feel one way and act another sometimes get ulcers. Tell Kate that you don't want to hear any more about Lanny — and get out of the advice business.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Brevard County In Florida Getting Set For New Boom

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Brevard County, which missiles transformed from a sleepy citrus area to the nation's fastest growing county, prepared for a new boom today in the wake of Cape Canaveral's selection as America's jumping-off place to the moon.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced Thursday that it will purchase 80,000 acres of land north and west of the Cape on which to construct launch pads and facilities for the monster Nova rocket, the multimillion-pound thrust vehicle assigned to carry astronauts to the moon and beyond.

An official estimated a billion dollars would be spent on construction of at least four Nova and two additional Saturn launch pads.

The acquisition of 80,000 acres will increase the size of the Cape five-fold — from 17,000 to 97,000 acres. Most of the new land will be used primarily as a safety buffer zone to protect populated areas from possible danger when one of the Novas blasts off.

Construction of launch sites is expected to start in about six months.

The land acquisition, which NASA reported would cost $60 million, may erase thousands of acres of lush citrus groves, three Atlantic Ocean recreation beaches and three unincorporated towns and will force about 500 persons to move from their homes.

Akron Nurse Class Includes 2 From Area

Miss Grace Ann Bise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bise of the Calcutta-Smiths Ferry Rd., and Miss Polly Pierce Allman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Allman, 430 Wall St., will graduate Sept. 15 from Akron City Hospital School of Nursing.

Commencement exercises will be held 8 p.m. at the Buchtel High School.

They are 1958 graduates of East Liverpool High School.

Band Will Practice On Church Property

The Official Board of the Oakland Free Methodist Church granted East Liverpool High School the use of the new church lot at Wedgewood and Etruria Sts. at a meeting Wednesday evening. The Rev. S. H. Estel presided.

The lot, which will be marked off like a football field, will be used by the band for practice sessions throughout the football season, unless the construction starts on the new church.

Student's Foreign Car Aggravating One

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Southwestern student Don Eyles Jr. thought he had seen the last of his aggravating little foreign car—but it turned up again.

Police fished it out of the Mississippi River last Monday. Diligent police work traced the car to Eyles, who looked at it and sighed.

Yes, it was his, he said, but he had pushed it over a bluff during a fit of rage and wanted no further part of it.

Police will keep the auto 30 days, then sell it at auction. No charges were filed.

An Absolute Must In Life

Divine Guidance Called Necessity By Air Officer

By PHIL GUNBY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The commander of one of America's nuclear weapon striking forces says he has found divine guidance an absolute must in his professional and private life.

"I think it's the basic concept that has made our country strong from its inception," says Maj. Eugene J. Budnik, a 40-year-old Air Force officer who commands a squadron in the Strategic Air Command.

Each of the more than 20 air crews in Budnik's 515th Bomb Squadron flies a B47 Stratojet bomber capable of delivering more destructive force than all the military planes used on all the aerial missions of World War II.

"When I was given command," Budnik says, "I wanted my men to know that when it came to decisions that would have an influence on their lives, all the decisions I would make would be tempered by my belief in God.

"This is not original with me. I see it as merely renewing the basic philosophy of the country. It's too often forgotten that our country stands for more than material gain."

Budnik and his men must be prepared to fly to predetermined enemy targets with less than 10 minutes notice.

"This is where we need the philosophy of divine guidance more than anywhere else," Budnik says. "Discipline, training and all the other factors are necessary, but if our crews get off on that trip, they'll have only one power to answer to."

His squadron has reacted "very favorably" to the philosophy of divine guidance in military leadership, the major says, adding: "We don't put this on a sectarian basis. I'm a Roman Catholic, but if you ask me how many Catholics there are in the squadron, I wouldn't know. I know we have men from all kinds of backgrounds, and all like the idea.

"Our men are true professionals and we treat them like professionals. We don't drive them, we promote individualism under God consistent with ethical procedure. We give them all the flexibility they need."

When Budnik took command of the 515th on July 1, 1959, he asked one of the chaplains to discuss divine guidance with squadron members. A year later Budnik again arranged for a chaplain to discuss such motivation, and the squadron members say this will be an annual tradition.

"Preview of Fall Fashions"

"Ollie Olsen"

It's the year of the fit coming on and the flare going on. Skirts are anything but narrow . . . or wide, fall, instead, gracefully in between. Waist lines wonder (and belts follow wherever they go.) Necklines now make news: they turn up into neat little turtles (or a strategic little scarf does it for them) or out into slim lapels. Color counts, too; but it's controlled. The stand out fashion of the year is "the coat". So beautiful you may want to buy more than one, against a later, leaner coat year. Olsens are proud to bring you all these new fashions for fall.

It's a beautiful, beautiful season for coats . . . and we're bringing you a bevy of the most elegant, the loveliest new fall styles . . . at prices surprisingly low . . . and all the more amazing because these are top quality, top fashion coats. The start-of-the-season savings are yours because we bought early . . . and got a special low price. Our complete selection of fall coats is on display right now! We have to admit, that they are the prettiest coats we have seen in many a year. You can use our layaway plan and pick out the coat of your dreams from a full stock, right away. A small deposit holds your choice. Do you prefer a certain style . . . a special fabric? Olsens have it!

Stirring up a real fashion storm for fall, Olsens Coat Department presents fabulous mink collared coats. In the newest full flare or smart looking sheaths. Detachable mink collars to reveal smart tailored collars beneath. There's a wonderful selection in the custom sized and petite coats. No more costly alterations. Specially designed for the gals 5 ft. 1 and under.

Then, there's the casual coats. Coats that will take you anywhere in fine fashion. Not quite as dressy as the mink trims but they have everything that fashion commands . . . the prettiest way for a petite lady to step into the fall fashion whirl. Pretty is as pretty does, so why don't you stop in at Olsen's Coat department for your first look of these exciting new coats.

They are priced just right for budget wise shoppers. Remember a small deposit will hold your coat until a later date. So now is the time to make your selection to have the prettiest coat in town.

Olsen's Sportswear department is bursting at the seams with all these new fashions. While browsing there today we found a whole rack of skirts that the shorter gals of all ages have been waiting for. Skirts that are scientifically created to fit and flatter the small figure. "Petites for the petite" in sizes 6-14 for 5 ft. 1 and under. What a selection, too. Plaids, solids, and stripes, in your choice of styles. Stuffed pleats to the hips, knife pleats, full gathered style, and slim sheaths at the wonderful low price of $3.88 to $5.88. You short girls who have lamented about the costly alteration on all your skirts will now be happy because they're scaled to fit your height. Match them with sweaters and blouses and you'll be all set for fall.

Remember Olsen's are open every night 'til nine for your shopping convenience. That's all today. See you next Friday.

The Sports Bench

Forcast Dim In District . . .

The football is known to take many funny bounces and our early season forecast may do the same, but after a quick survey of the district the picture doesn't look too bright.

It may be a little early to tell since most teams have been working for only one week, but on paper area coaches can only draw sketches of rebuilding campaigns.

Probably the brightest spot on the district scene is Wellsville.

Potters Face 'Green Year' . . .

THE GRASS couldn't grow any greener than the Potter football team is. Bob Hedmond steps into the head coaching job at East Liverpool with his hands full.

While the Blue and White may take its lumps this year, Potter followers must be patient and look ahead to better things in the future.

Midland May Be Surprise . . .

IF THERE is a surprise this season it may come at Midland where we hear the Leopards are due for some vast improvement.

Coach Charlie Polce is a little tight-lipped when it comes to building up his team, believing that actions speak louder than words. So keep an eye on the Leopards.

Chester and Newell are about in the same boat. They have a few seniors sprinkled here and there, but will have to rely mostly on underclassmen for reserve strength. Both schools lack depth and at present are working out with about 30 boys each.

Mick Staley will be Pete Horosko's quarterback at Newell. He is rated among the better passers in the area. Horosko will be Several New Faces . . .

AMONG THE new coaches this season will be Don McBride, the former Columbiana standout, who moved from Hopedale to Stanton Local.

Of course there is Hedmond at East Liverpool, while Roy Dempsey will attempt to carry on where Howard Weyers left off at East Palestine.

Jose Sets Track On Fire . . .

JOCKEY JOSE Olivares put together one of the longest winning streaks in sometime at Waterford Park and as soon as it was broken he started on another one.

The first streak came over a period of two days and in the last nine races the Cuban rider has been aboard eight of nine winners to be the hottest thing in silks seen at the Hancock County track in some time.

He rode the last three winners on Wednesday's card then came back to ride two straight on Thursday's program for the five in a row.

His streak ended in the sixth race Thursday when Flagg's Flood, a longshot, finished out of the money, but he immediately put together another string by riding the last three winners again.

This 'N That In Sports . . .

WIRING of the new lights for the Beaver Local High School athletic field is well under way by the Thompson Electric Co., and installation of the fixtures will start soon school officials report.

The eight poles and cross arms were erected earlier this month. The project is expected to be completed for the initial grid game Sept. 8.

WHEN SGT. Emuel Bosley, area Army recruiter, leaves East Liverpool to go on a tour of duty in Germany, the Potter football squad will lose one of its most avid supporters.

In the eight years that Sgt. Bosley served here, he only missed two football games, both home and away. He recalled that he missed one game in the 1957 season and the other in 1959. We wish Sgt. Bosley the best of luck on his new assignment.

Reds Check Skid With 8-To-5 Victory

Lead By 3½: LA's Slump Reaches 10

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer

Leo Cardenas and Dick Gernert, getting their chance in a lineup shakeup, paired for five hits and four RBI as Cincinnati, after losing four in a row, cooled off San Francisco 8-5 Thursday night.

That gave the Reds a 3½-game lead in the National League race again after the second place Los Angeles Dodgers lost their 10th in a row, 10-1 at St. Louis.

The Reds shook their slump with four unearned runs in the seventh inning, triggered by Cardenas' winning three-run double, and ended San Francisco's winning string at six.

Milwaukee beat Pittsburgh 6-1, with Warren Spahn winning No. 303, and Philadelphia tagged the Chicago Cubs 7-4.

Cardenas, stepping in for Ed Kasko at shortstop, had two doubles and a single among the Reds' 13 hits off loser Jack Sanford (10-7) and reliever Stu Miller.

Southpaw Jim O'Toole (13-10), was the winner.

The Cards socked loser Stan Williams (11-10), quick, scoring in the first on Bill White's two-run homer. Alex Grammas, a .148 hitter, drove in five runs, three with a seventh-inning double, for the Cards. Lindy McDaniel won his 10th in relief.

Veteran Duke Snider, subbing in center for the benched Tommy Davis, and Maury Wills were the only Dodger starters who failed to hit.

The Braves cracked a 1-1 tie in the second inning at Pittsburgh when Frank Thomas singled off loser Bob Friend (12-16). Spahn, who singled home the first run, gave up 10 hits.

A three-run homer by Don Demeter sewed it up in a six-run second inning for the Phils.

Sore Right Thigh May Bench Groza

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Lou Groza, who kicked two field goals and three extra points in the Cleveland Browns' victory over the San Francisco 49ers last Sunday, may be out of action when the Browns meet the Los Angeles Rams in an exhibition game here tonight.

Groza has a sore right thigh and hasn't done much booting this week. Sam Baker will go back to double duty of punting and place-kicking if Groza isn't ready.

The Browns flew here Thursday following a final workout at Stanford University. They will fly to Cleveland immediately after tonight's game.

The game will be the windup for at least two of the Browns. The squad numbers 45 players and must be down to 43 by next Tuesday night. Five more players must go by Sept. 5, and the squad must be reduced to 36 players the week before the regular season opener in Philadelphia Sunday, Sept. 17.

Lions Junior Net Tourney Draws 20

Paul Jarvis of East Liverpool, the defending champion, and 19 others are entered in the singles competition of the second annual Junior Tennis Tournament sponsored by the local Lion's Club.

The players who range in age from 18 years old and under, will begin competition Saturday morning with semi-finals and finals Sunday on the Thompson Park courts.

Other outstanding players in the field include Joel Wohlge-muth, who captured the Beaver Area Jaycee tournament and reached the quarter finals of the Pennsylvania State tourney in Philadelphia this year; Dave Davis of Beaver, who won the Pepsi Cola tourney for players 15 years old and under; Terry Denbow winner of the 14 and under group in the Beaver Jaycee tourney and Renny Goldberg of Youngstown who captured the Youngstown Invitational.

Local players who will be participating include Ron and Paul Jarvis, Art Turner and Mark Hoffrichter.

Only single matches will be held. Laurin Stacey, tournament chairman, said.

Pairings for Saturday follow:

The women's Cosmo Bowling League will meet Wednesday at 7:30 at the Don-Bus Alleys. All girls who bowled last year in the league and any new girls interested are requested to attend.

Bucs' Manager Due Back In '62

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Despite the downfall of the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates this season, Danny Murtaugh will return as manager in 1962.

Murtaugh was rehired Thursday in a move that came as no surprise. Terms of the contract were not released but Murtaugh was reportedly paid $40,000 this year.

The Pirates, after winning the National League pennant by seven games last year, currently are in sixth place.

Olivares Continues Pace With 5 More At Waterford

One of the hottest saddles seen at Waterford Park in sometime is the one owned by Jose Olivares.

After booting home three straight winners in the last three races on Wednesday, Olivares returned to the track Thursday and rode five more steeds to victory on the nine-race card.

He duplicated his feat Wednesday by riding the winners of the last three races on Thursday's program.

Olivares had his streak up to five straight, including the three Wednesday and two more in the first and third races yesterday.

The only race Olivares rode in Thursday and didn't win was the sixth when Flagg's Flood, a longshot, finished out of the money. Actually, he has won on eight out of his last nine mounts.

A 4-4 double of Little Fox and Tulip Patch, a pair of even-money favorites, returned only $9.40. A consolation double was paid on a 4-7 combine when Walt's First was scratched at posttime.

Restoring Old Cars
A Popular Hobby

Canopy of parts hangs over 1926 Chevrolet truck stored for restoration. Many fixtures dangling from roof are as old as the truck.

RESTORING old automobiles is a hobby that is rolling along in high gear as more and more people tinker with antique cars.

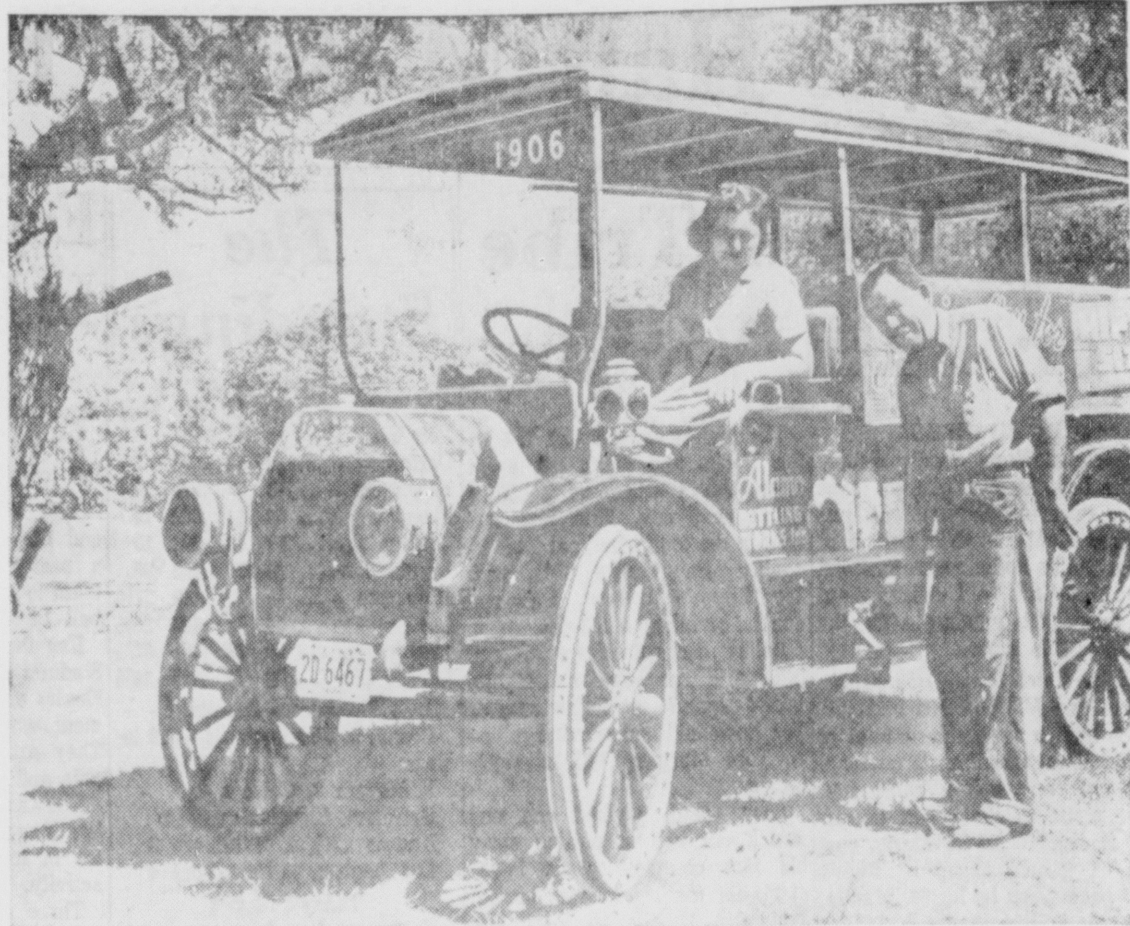

Auto restorers report that few worthwhile antiques are found in junk or salvage yards. Many simply lie in backyards and on private lands.

Farm areas are good hunting grounds for old cars that are often surrounded by weeds and trees or thrown onto scrap piles. Not all antique cars are worth restoring, but the avid collector searches until he finds one that suits his fancy. He devotes many hours to repairing the vehicle.

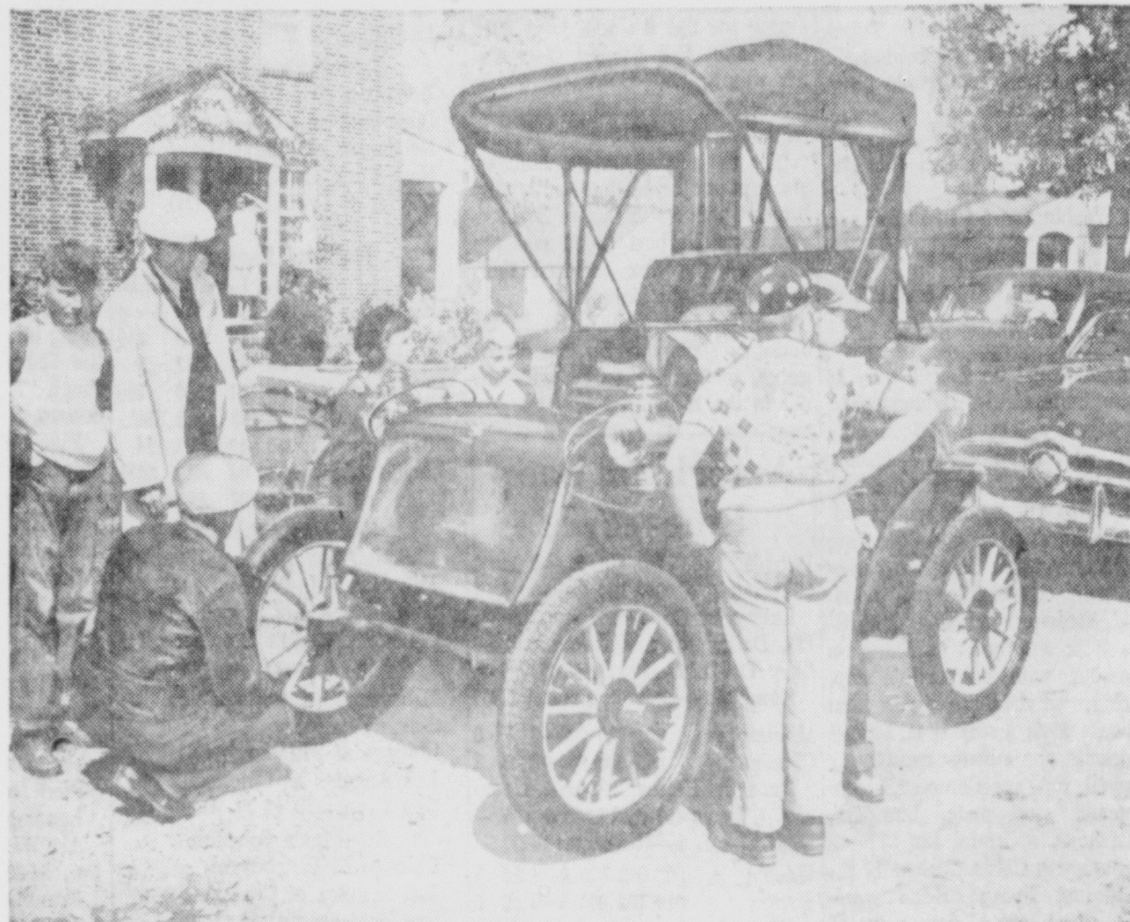

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Flaherty Jr., of Morristown, N.J., own a 1939 Mercedes Benz with a bullet hole in its upholstery, reputedly the result of its former German owner having been fired upon by a disgruntled Nazi bureaucrat.

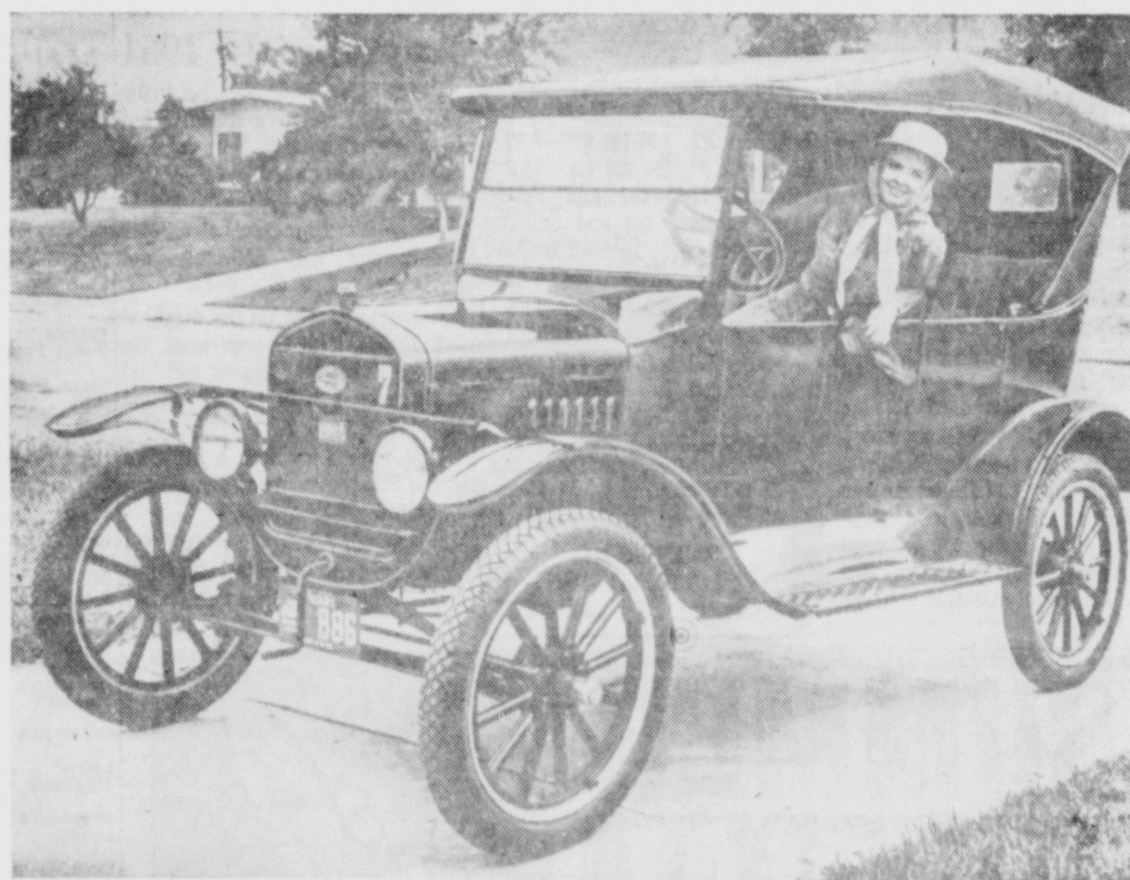

"Cynthia," a three-wheeled 1901 Knox, is shown in Paris after traveling 2,500 miles.

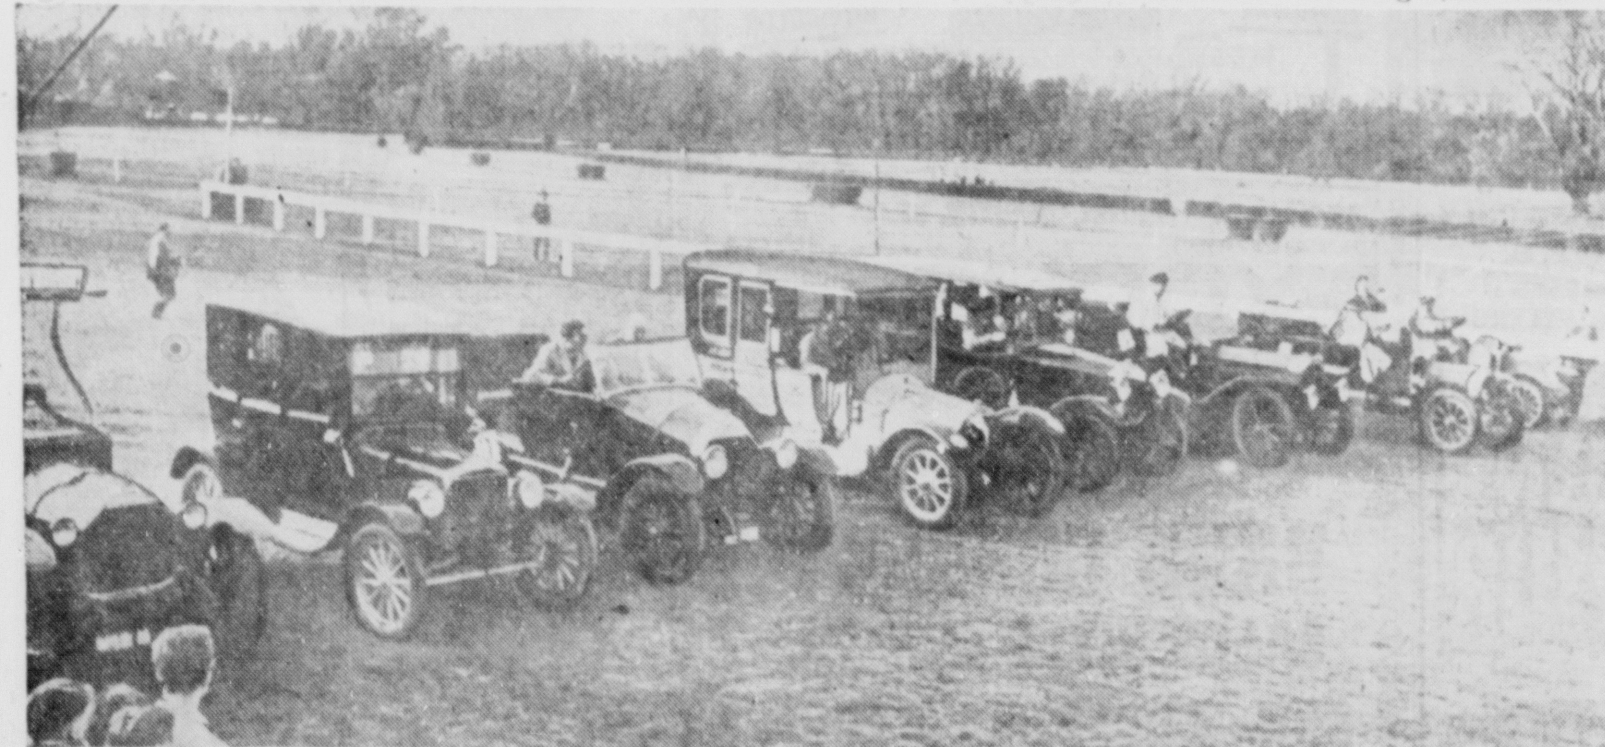

A restored 1906 International truck is displayed by owners in San Antonio, Tex. The couple, interested in old cars, have 25 antique automobiles in their backyard.

A 1903 Knox fascinates onlookers when it stops during a "tin-can" caravan held in 1949. The driver is examining his front wheel after having run off pavement.

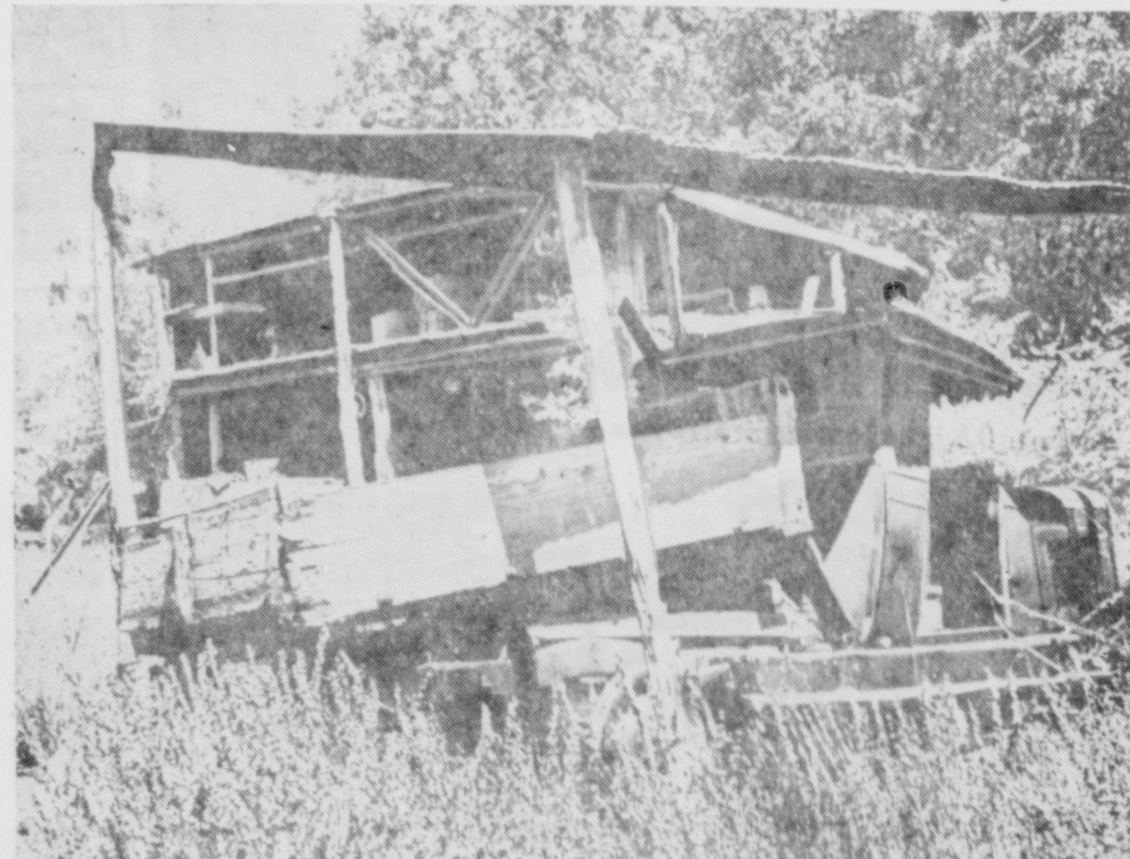

The final result of restoration comes when old car, repaired and polished, hits road to begin new life. This 1923 Ford is now ready for contests and parades.

Autos dating from 1904 to 1920 get set to compete at Vienna's Freudenu Track in this 1958 race. Winning car was limousine in which Archduke Francis Ferdinand of Austria was riding when he was assassinated at Sarajevo in 1914.

School Training Begins At Home

(By Beatrice M. Gudridge of the National Education Association, author of pamphlets for parents.)

Take one small well-scrubbed relative about three feet high, sprinkle generously with parent-type understanding, fold in books, a teacher, a school, and let simmer for the next 12 years—stirring often.

That's the recipe for parents of the pigtail-and-ponicle set, off to school this fall for the first time—all four million of them.

If you're like most parents, you've been helping your child get ready for this day from the moment he uttered his first recognizable word.

You helped when you waited patiently for inexpressible but eager little fingers to button a snowsuit, you helped when you let the dishes go to read him his bedtime story.

All the books you read aloud, the lumps of molded clay you admired, the time you took to play catch, the ideas you listened to, the questions you answered, the regular patterns for meals, sleep, and play on which you insisted—these were the soundest kind of preparation for school.

FOR WONDERFUL and exciting as school is, there are things it cannot do for your child.

School cannot, for example, make him want to read if he has never sensed or seen at home that there is beauty and adventure and learning to be found in books.

Nor can school turn him into a cheerful, cooperative, courteous young citizen if he has never experienced at home or in the neighborhood the good feeling of sharing—foys, a book, a game, an outing, a thought.

And school can't do much either about making him want to finish a job, make a friend, assume a responsibility, explore an idea if the very important people in his life up to now—his parents—have never indicated they felt these things were important.

If you have done your job well in the first five years of your child's life, his school and his teachers will have something on which to build.

But there are specifics now where you can help ready him for school routines.

YOU CAN encourage him to put away his own toys at pickup time, to listen when others speak, to follow directions, to take over simple household tasks.

You can establish the kind of going-to-bed, getting-up, resting, playing routine at home that he can continue when school begins.

School is a place where he will begin growing up. At home, he is learning to turn lights on and off, to wash himself, to tie his own shoestrings, to carry water without spilling, to climb and coast and slide and swing.

Has he had the fun at home of drawing with crayons on a big sheet of paper, molding clay, painting with a big brush and bold colors, pounding with a mallet, listening to music that told him to hop, run, or sing to its rhythms?

School, he will find, is also a place to talk. At home, are you speaking carefully and clearly so that he will hear words correctly pronounced? Giving him experiences to talk about—a trip to the zoo, the lake, the movies, the museum, the library?

ARE YOU promptly and honestly answering his questions, even the seemingly-odd or outright impertinent ones (what makes you so fat? where did your hair go?) When his eager curiosity leads you into murky waters, do you say, "Let's look that up" in the dictionary, globe, map, magazine, book?

Perhaps the biggest adventure he will ever have in school is learning to read.

To give him a running start, you will want to read him many stories, begin him on his own "library," show him how much you yourself enjoy reading. Lead him to books about things that really interest him and that he can understand—stories about trains, planes, tugboats, or about other children. When he starts to read, take time to listen.

Above all, don't pressure him to read if he isn't learning quite as fast as you think he should. Recognize that your child, like every other child, has his own personal private timetable for growing and doing.

When he goes off to school, he will be glad that there's somebody back home rooting for him, ready to praise him for tasks well done and for honest effort. He's on his own now, but with that kind of backing, he knows he really can't lose—and there's a whole world to win.

Jets Nearing Loop Pennant

Unless some unforeseen calamity occurs the Columbus Jets are in as the International League 1961 pennant winners.

While they have yet to officially clinch first place, the Jets beat back the last stand of the second-place Charleston Marlins in a six-game series that ended Thursday night.

Even though Columbus lost the finale 6-2, the Jets kept the nine game lead they held when the series began earlier this week by splitting the six games. They should have clear sailing between now and the season's end, early next month.

In other I.L. games Thursday night, Buffalo beat Rochester 2-1, Toronto handed Syracuse its 10th straight loss 8-5, and Richmond blanked Jersey City 4-0.

Tim McCarver had four hits and drove in four Charleston runs to back up winner Dean Stone (9-8). Ed Sada drove in both Columbus runs with a one-on homer, Tom Parsons lost.

200 Soldiers Rushed To Fight Forest Fires

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (AP)—Two hundred soldiers and additional fire-fighting equipment were rushed into Newfoundland by plane today to help battle forest fires that have raged over 832,000 acres of prime timber land.

The province was under a state of emergency as the flames continued to advance. Hot, dry weather was forecast and there was no hint of rain.

Resources Minister W. J. Keough asked Newfoundlanders to offer special prayers for rain. One forestry official described the fires as "hundreds of little hells."

Ohio Girl Wins

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Susan Gerber of Middletown, Ohio, reached the consolation quarter-finals of the U.S. Girls Grass Court Tennis Tournament by defeating Jane McCleary, Baltimore, 6-2, 6-2 Thursday. The consolation games are for those who had lost their opening matches in the singles competition.

In Tie For 8th

DENVER (AP)—Alex Antonio of Hubbard, Ohio, was in a two-way tie for eighth place with a score of 222 after completion Thursday of 54 holes in the 72-hole International Jaycee Golf Tournament.

Deputy Thomas Blackburn, 35, sustained a dislocated ankle, broken right leg and a lacerated eye.

The 200-pound deputy is in "fair" condition today at Ohio Valley Hospital in Steubenville, where he was to undergo additional X-rays to determine the full extent of his injuries.

Authorities said Deputy Blackburn apparently lost his footing while standing on a high concrete wall to direct traffic after a Toronto man's car had plunged over the embankment.

The Winterville Highway Patrol said 95 feet of guardrail was damaged when Romeo L. Putnam, 26, of 1221 1/2 N. 5th St., Toronto, went off the highway and over the wall near the Wells Mar Inn on Route 7.

The patrol said Putnam, headed south, had attempted to pass a tractor-trailer rig driven by Lloyd R. Painter, 26, of Tiffin, at the time the rig also was pulling out to pass.

Putnam suffered strain injuries of both legs but was not treated at a hospital. He was cited into the court of Judge Helen M. Huntsman on a charge of changing lanes without caution, the patrol said.

The mishap occurred at 2:55 p. m. four miles north of Steubenville.

Deputy Blackburn, father of six children, is believed to have received the lacerated eye on a piece of the damaged guardrail in the fall.

Ray Poage, John Cook and Pat Culppepper, the three top candidates for fullback on the 1961 Texas football team, all are business majors.

It Turned Into A Book

Because a teacher wanted her math class to see how numbers actually function outside the classroom, seventh-graders in Elmira, N. Y., have researched and written a 98-page book on the life of their city.

Mrs. Hazel P. Purcell didn't dream the project she assigned her class would boom to such proportions. She expected a five- or six-page paper, "but the children just ran away with the idea," and spent five months gathering data.

The book tells how much

Elmira industrial workers earn, how many books are circulated by Steele Memorial Library and is a storehouse of useful information.

In tackling the project, the class was divided into seven sections, each with a chairman to head up the research and split the assignments among the 12- and 13-year-olds. The young researchers met with dignity and consideration as they toured the city, gathering statistics on government operation, sports opportunities, cultural offerings, church life, social service work, and the many other functions of a busy city's life.

Enthusiasm for the project was contagious. Parents of the class, astounded at the growth in their children's personalities as they conducted their survey, offered to type the results. One firm lent a typewriter and another lithographed the finished production after it was written and edited. The binding was done by the students.

The title of the book? "A Math Class Looks Around."

Irondale Man Hurt In Fall From Wall

A Jefferson County sheriff's deputy from Irondale was injured badly when he fell 17 feet from a wall along Route 7 between Toronto and Steubenville Thursday while directing traffic at the scene of a crash.

Deputy Thomas Blackburn, 35, sustained a dislocated ankle, broken right leg and a lacerated eye.

The 200-pound deputy is in "fair" condition today at Ohio Valley Hospital in Steubenville, where he was to undergo additional X-rays to determine the full extent of his injuries.

Authorities said Deputy Blackburn apparently lost his footing while standing on a high concrete wall to direct traffic after a Toronto man's car had plunged over the embankment.

The Winterville Highway Patrol said 95 feet of guardrail was damaged when Romeo L. Putnam, 26, of 1221 1/2 N. 5th St., Toronto, went off the highway and over the wall near the Wells Mar Inn on Route 7.

The patrol said Putnam, headed south, had attempted to pass a tractor-trailer rig driven by Lloyd R. Painter, 26, of Tiffin, at the time the rig also was pulling out to pass.

Putnam suffered strain injuries of both legs but was not treated at a hospital. He was cited into the court of Judge Helen M. Huntsman on a charge of changing lanes without caution, the patrol said.

The mishap occurred at 2:55 p. m. four miles north of Steubenville.

Deputy Blackburn, father of six children, is believed to have received the lacerated eye on a piece of the damaged guardrail in the fall.

Ray Poage, John Cook and Pat Culppepper, the three top candidates for fullback on the 1961 Texas football team, all are business majors.

Senior Citizens Discuss Need Of Group For Aged

The first initial meeting of the Senior Citizens Group in East Liverpool was held Thursday afternoon at the Calvary Methodist Church and about 45 attended.

The program followed a dinner provided free by the Sarah Watson, Pairs and Spares, Dorcas and the Young Women's Classes of the church, and Mrs. Russell Meador, Miss Margaret Smith, Mrs. Rozella Hickenbottom, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pritchett and a local merchant.

For the panel discussion on "Is There a Need for a Senior Citizens Group in East Liverpool?" questionnaires were distributed then evaluated.

Suggestions included the need of benches throughout the community, particularly at bus stops, and for a room for elderly men to assemble for leisure. Lack of public restrooms for men was cited.

With a Social Security Office proposed for East Liverpool, the group suggested that the location should be on a ground floor as a convenience for those who can not climb steps.

Miss Smith spoke on why she feels a program of this type is needed here.

Entertainment consisted of old favorites by the LaCroft Mothers' Singers, under the direction of Mrs. James Steiner. The group also presented "kitchen band" selections. Groups singing was enjoyed with Mrs. Alice Little pianist. Devotions were led by the Rev. Carl Beighley, pastor.

Next meeting is Thursday afternoon at the church.

$500,000 Set As Fire Loss In Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—Firemen today sought the cause of a blaze that raged out of control more than four hours Thursday night and destroyed a big appliance warehouse.

Loss was estimated at upwards of $500,000 at the warehouse of the Wilcox Transfer Co. in the Cuyahoga River Flats area on the Near West Side. There were no injuries.

The structure was favaed completely despite the efforts of 160 firemen from 23 companies. It was reportedly filled with hundreds of refrigerators, ranges and other appliances.

Low water pressure and clouds of heavy smoke hampered firemen. Fire boats were used to refill pumper trucks with Cuyahoga River water.

First firemen at the scene saw 50-foot high flames that spread quickly in the three-story section, then jumped a 30-foot gap into the two-story section. Flames eventually ate their way into a new 1 1/2-story office area.

Henry N. Depner, company president, said the loss would be at least $500,000. The company stores and delivers appliances for the city's smaller distributors.

A police tow truck driver, Nicholas Voss, 59, ran into the flame-engulfed building and drove seven delivery trucks to safety. Ignition keys were in each vehicle.

Jones 12-5 Favorite To Defeat Von Clay

NEW YORK (AP)—Undeclared Doug Jones, 24, of Philadelphia rules a 12-5 favorite to run his record to 2-0 against Von Clay, 22, in a nationally televised 10-round Saturday night in Madison Square Garden.

Jones, 20, a light heavyweight contender in this month's Ring magazine ratings, won two close decisions from Clay last year at St. Nicholas Arena.

Committees Set In Nursing Case Plan At Palestine

EAST PALESTINE—Four standing committees for a proposed community nursing home were named at an organization meeting attended by 30 Thursday night at the old City Hall building.

Tentative plans call for construction of a $100,000 building to accommodate some 40 elderly persons, with an annual operating expense of $50,000.

Committee chairmen include F. E. Owen, finance; the Rev. William Robb, aims and purposes; A. C. Oakley, building; and Eldon Meek, property.

Under consideration as a site is a 2-acre tract of city-owned property west of the City Park facing Bacon Ave.

The aims and purposes committee is to meet tonight to outline plans for visiting some 50 nursing homes in a 100-mile radius. Dr. J. C. Hartford presided. Next meeting is Sept. 7.

East Junior High To Post Assignments

Homeroom assignments for East Junior High students will be posted at the front entrance starting Monday, Clarence G. Means, principal, announced today.

He urged students to obtain their assignments before the opening of school on Sept. 6, but added that no assignments will be given out over the phone.

Registration for bus passes will be held Tuesday from 9:30 a. m. until noon in the lobby.

Students living west of Patterson Foundry, south of the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks; 810 or under on Pennsylvania Ave.; south of Harvey Ave., east of Elizabeth St.; Dixonville area and beyond 870 and up on Price St., Valley and Oakland Aves. are entitled to free morning and evening passes.

They also may purchase passes for non rides for the first week of school for 45 cents.

Students living within the transportation limits may purchase morning - evening and noon passes for 45 cents. The passes may be purchased Tuesday when registration is held.

Those desiring to ride must register, Means emphasized. If they are unable to attend, a friend or relative may register for them, but no phone registrations will be accepted, he added.

Students entering East Junior who were not enrolled in June have been asked to register at the principals' office. Those who attended last term but will not be returning next month also have been asked to advise the principals' office.

Students entering seventh grade from Garfield, Horace Mann, Lincoln and Neville are not required to register, Means said.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I treat some light burn marks on my furniture?

A. These will sometimes disappear by use of your regular furniture polish. If not, use some rottenstone or finely powdered pumice mixed to a thin paste with raw or boiled linseed oil. Rub in the direction of the grain. Wipe with another cloth moistened with plain linseed oil. Repeat, as often as necessary. If the burn is too deep, you'll more than likely need professional care.

Q. How can I keep my leather gloves sweet-smelling and odor-free?

A. Shake some rice or talcum powder into the gloves before putting them away. This will prevent that disagreeable leathery smell sometimes acquired when worn constantly.

Q. How can I stiffen the bristles of a brush?

A. By dipping them into a strong solution of alum, saturating thoroughly.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Loafers Have No Love For Workers

Perhaps you spend one or several weeks with your family of children, from nine to 14, at a cabin or with some relatives. Who does the washing and ironing for these youngsters during this period? In a few instances the hostess will. But in most cases the mother will do all of it, just as Dr. Garry Meyers she usually does at home. In addition she may do nearly all of the housework or assist the hostess in doing so. If you don't believe the foregoing is true, invite a family with children over six or seven years of age to spend several days at your home. Or drop in at a neighbor's home where such guests are.

JUST LOOK AND listen for a few minutes. Then you may feel a bit disgusted at the young loafers letting their mothers slave for them.

But you shouldn't be too hard on these children. They are merely acting from habit. They had never been trained to do for themselves nearly all they are able to do. Their mothers had never required them to take such simple responsibilities.

Just how many girls and boys ten to 12 or older have ever been taught to iron or press their own clothes, or been required to do so?

Often I have thought how little vacation the mother of one or two little children really gets, because so much care by her may be necessary.

More recently I've been thinking about the mother who goes on vacation with several youngsters over six or eight and spends hours toiling for them while they do little or nothing for themselves.

ALTHOUGH THIS mother tries to fool herself to believe she is kind to these children, she's robbing them of their right to learn to take reasonable responsibility. Occasionally it may occur to this mother that the children should do more and she may tell them so. But, as a rule, they won't. Why should she expect them to change suddenly?

By and by they will return home with her to go on living in idleness and she will continue slaving for them. And will they grow up to love and esteem this mother for all she has done for them? Hardly, to a desirable degree.

As a rule, the mother who makes herself her children's slave will rarely be remembered and loved by them.

My bulletins, "How to Teach Child to Help at Home" and "Educating Your Child in Responsibility," may be had by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Family Picks 1962 Officers

Officers for 1962 were elected at the 39th reunion of the Swearingin-Strauss family Saturday in the social room of the Mill Creek Presbyterian Church near Hookstown.

They are James B. Buchanan, president; David Wilcoxon, vice president; David Craig, re-elected treasurer; Miss Cora Mae Swearingin, secretary, Mrs. William Lander, assistant secretary.

Mrs. Warren Swearingin, social chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fish of Reynoldsville, Pa. host and hostess, and C. C. Herron and daughter, Jane, of New Cumberland, assistant host and hostess.

The 1962 reunion will be held Aug. 18 at the church.

Dinner was served at noon with Mrs. C. A. Shane, social chairman, in charge. Gifts were presented several guests.

Mrs. Fanny Seeringin, 85, of Baltimore, was the oldest and traveled the farthest and C. C. Herron, 80, was the next oldest. The youngest was Larry Swearingin, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Swearingin of Glen Willard. Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Shane had the largest family present and Herron has never missed a reunion.

A welcome was extended to newcomers, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Elder and Jack Blain.

Japan Will Base U.N. Actions On U.N.-First Policy

TOKYO (AP)—The Foreign Office today announced Japan henceforth will base its actions in the United Nations solely on a U.N.-first policy.

A 340-page book titled "The Recent State of Japan's Foreign Policy" declared Japanese foreign policy will entail enhancing the prestige of and strengthening the United Nations and that if such policy conflicts with the position of other African-Asian nations, "it cannot be helped."

The bulky document said Japan's aim is to see the United Nations evolve into an organization with enough prestige and power to maintain world peace.

The detailed report, approved by Premier Hayato Ikeda's Cabinet, maintained that Japan's U.N. activities tend to conform with those of other free nations and that Japan will continue to cooperate with democratic powers.

The opposition Socialist party promptly complained that the report mirrored U.S. policy and did not suggest ways of improving relations between Japan and Red China. The Socialists called on the ruling Liberal-Democrats to work with the African-Asian bloc in the United Nations.

$3 Million Refunded Gas Firm's Customers

CHARLESTON (AP) — The United Fuel Gas Co. has refunded its customers in Southern West Virginia $3.8 million, the largest amount ever returned by a West Virginia utility under terms of a Public Service Commission order.

The refunds represented the difference in rates which UFG sought and the amount finally allowed during a 21-month period.

The UFG wanted $4.2 million in additional annual revenue. The PSC allowed increases designed to bring in about $2.12 million. The company informed the PSC yesterday it had refunded the difference to about 119,000 customers.

Noted Actress, 41, Is Sued For Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mercedes McCambridge, 41, Academy Award-winning actress, is being sued for divorce.

Her husband, Fletcher Markle, 38, movie director-producer, filed the suit in Superior Court Thursday, charging extreme mental cruelty.

Miss McCambridge won an Academy Award in 1950 for her supporting role in the movie "All the King's Men."

AP Editor Taken

NEW YORK (AP)—Arnold R. Derlitzki, 52, an editor in the New York office of The Associated Press, died Thursday. Derlitzki, who had worked for newspapers in Illinois and Detroit before he joined The AP in Chicago in 1937, had been in the New York bureau since 1944. He was born in Decatur, Ill.

Beaver Jury Will Convene

The Beaver County Grand Jury will convene Monday at Beaver and the only area case to go before it will be that of an East Liverpool man, according to a list announced by District Atty. Richard P. Steward.

There are a variety of cases, totaling 69.

Marvin Pack of East Liverpool is charged with neglect of support of a child. His case is listed for Wednesday.

A list of 24 prospective grand jurors include W. J. Beglin of Midland, according to the court calendar for the August term.

Names drawn as petit jurors for court trials the week of Sept. 11, include 11 from Midland and two from Ohio Township.

They are Charles Baker, Aline Clark, Kenneth Grable, Frank O. Gibson, Florence Lemke, Hester M. Potts, Frank Ream, Mrs. Truman Rodfong, Albert Susie, Paul Stiffler and Theodore Wertz, all of Midland, and George Graham and Mabel Henderson, both of Ohio Township.

Names drawn as petit jurors for the week of Sept. 18 include Edith Pultanovich of Midland and Blanche Sobona of Hanover Township.

Widow, 83, Dies

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Eliza C. Heil, 83, widow of former Wisconsin Gov. Julius P. Heil, died Thursday. Heil, a Republican who was governor from 1939 through 1942, was founder and head of the Heil Co. in Milwaukee.

Author Dies At 47

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Adam Lapin, 47, author and newspaperman, died Thursday of a heart attack. Lapin, under the pen name of Ben Adams, wrote non-fiction books on Alaska and Hawaii and had just finished reading proof on his last book, "San Francisco."

Funds Transferred

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — To carry expenses of the medical care portion of the state's old age program, $721,000 has been transferred from fourth quarter appropriations for use in the first quarter of the state's bookkeeping year. The money will be used in old age payments next month.

Librarian Calls Gunther's Book 'Compelling Reading'

John Gunther's new book, "Inside Europe," is among additions at the Carnegie Public Library and Miss Frances Jones, librarian, termed it "compelling reading," adding, "don't miss it!"

When Gunther asked Prime Minister Macmillan "What do you believe in most?" the British leader replied, "God." This is a very revealing interview which answers those who claim that Macmillan is both supercilious and pompous and typical of the fine reporting in Gunther's "Inside Europe."

The author uses the same approach he used 25 years ago when he first wrote another volume under the same title.

The library also recommends on its new bookshelf two related volumes — "The Future as History," by Robert Heilbroner, and "It Takes All Kinds," by John Little.

The first book is a highly philosophical concept of where we are headed as a nation. The second is an entertaining series of episodes which prove that true brotherhood is being demonstrated today. A notable one in the series tells of a guard in an East German prison who became sympathetic to the Allied cause; he and his wife helped a prisoner escape and left with him.

Just as the Bible is the best seller round the world — so are all novels based on the life of Christ. Elizabeth Pool tells the Biblical story from the time of Moses to the Christianizing of Paul. The title of this fine novel is "The Unexpected Messiah." A

Lutheran minister, who now preaches in St. Louis, has collected a group of his sermons on the Crucifixion in a small volume entitled, "The Cross Still Stands."

Four new novels await the reader who prefers escape. An English aviator, Gavin Lyall, pens an adventurous tale of a stolen cargo of jewels in "The Wrong Side of the Sky." The setting is Greece and North Africa. James Kennaway, a Scottish novelist, writes a serious novel with insight in "Household Ghosts."

A pair of novels strongly flavored with Jewish background are Michael Rubin's "A Trip Into Town" and "The Crossing Point" by Gerda Charles.

Two volumes which may jerk you out of the late summer doldrums are H. Allen Smith's "How to Write Without Knowing Nothing" and "Mirror, Mirror on the Wall" by Gaylord Hauser. Smith's warns against the hazards of American dialects — such as the Arkansas jargon of Dizzy Dean. Hauser warns the ladies against loss of beauty. The latter volume, if read with tongue in cheek, can also guarantee a few laughs.

Frank Hutton Elected Chester Playlot Head

Frank Hutton was elected president of the Jack Owen Playground Association of Chester at a meeting Thursday night at the playground. He succeeds Mrs. Russell Gorby.

Others elected were Ronald Wright, vice president, and Mrs. Carl Mumford, treasurer.

More than 75 attended a carnival held by the children at the playground last night. A collection netted $34, and the carnival receipts totaled $61.75. Proceeds will be used to purchase a power mower.

The children held a parade at 4 p.m.

Plans are being made for a bake sale Sept. 9 in front of the Allison Grocery Store on 9th St., Mrs. Gorby reported.

Audrey Meadows Wed To Air Lines Figure

HONOLULU (AP)—Actress Audrey Meadows and Robert F. Six, president of Continental Air Lines, were married Thursday in an Episcopal ceremony. They will leave tonight for a tour of the Far East.

The marriage was the second for Miss Meadows and the third for Six. His second wife was singer Ethel Merman. Miss Meadows said she will continue her television and motion picture work.
